Hello, i just purchased a passport and wanted to confirm that it will be punched for January. Since it still be mailed, it's already mid Dec. and I'll be out of town for the holidays, i won't get to start using it until then. Thanks very much!

The passports will be punched for December. They are good until the last day of the month they are punched for, so they will not expire until Dec. 31, 2015. So, if you purchase it today and you don't give the pass until Christmas, it still lasts over a year. Make sense? Just a couple of days, but you still get your year.

Guess that make sense but it's not how my last one was punched. I suppose its better to wait and buy them on the first of the month. Thx.
