5 cities, 5 smart ideas

10,000 problems fixed in six months, thanks to Improve Detroit app... Schenectady taps GE retiree brain power to get smarter... SF pilot that targets transit-only lane encroachment gets green light... Veolia refuse team in Westminster creates children's book on recycling... There's no doubt about open data in Dubai – it's the law. Get details at the site.

When data gets scary

As smart cities are discovering, opening up data can reveal trends that may have remained a mystery otherwise. For example, as Halloween creeps closer, data geeks have revealed the best cities for trick-or-treating, where you don't want to live during a vampire attack – and more fun and freaky stuff. Don't miss it.

5 thirst quenching ideas

Some 20% of the world's population lives in areas where water is already in short supply, a number that is only going to grow. From shaded reservoirs to water ATMs, here are 5 ways cities are stepping up to quench the thirst.

WEC: Top 10 urban innovations

With cities holding an ever increasing percentage of the world's population, they're having to get creative to find ways to stretch limited resources. A new World Economic Forum report outlines the top 10 innovative solutions featuring great ideas that may help you prepare your city today.
