

Account: South Carolina State Parks

Content type: Facebook Page - Timeline posts

Record ID: 20111018South-Carolina-State-ParksTimeline-posts52748_10150360839533166

South Carolina State Parks

at 14:35:21 on 10/18/2011 UTC · 🌐

Let's help Nicki out, folks! Any suggestions? ----I'm in Charleston and looking for a park to go to in Nov. in the mountains with some trails. I will be camping in a camper...any suggestions?? (SC Only)

Jay Frick Oconee State park. One of my favorites.

at 14:36:15 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Marcia Spirit Flicker Campbell Table Rock

at 14:36:48 on 10/18/2011 UTC

HollyAnn Crowe Table Rock !

at 14:37:32 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Lake Hartwell Country South Carolina Devils Fork State Park on Lake Jocassee!

at 14:37:58 on 10/18/2011 UTC

John Bradley Table Rock or Oconee. Can't go wrong with either of those wonderful parks!!!!

at 14:38:00 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Len Lesslie Table Rock is one of my favorites.

at 14:39:41 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Hope Martin Derrick Table Rock is beautiful in the fall.

at 14:41:37 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Misty Grubb Thompson Lake Jocassee is beautiful!!

at 14:42:07 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Mark K Ray 40 acre rock has some nice trails near Lancaster but not overnight camping but u could stop there on your way further north for a nice hike

at 14:43:19 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Bonnie Hughes Hamm definitely Oconee...Hidden Falls is a nice hike...Table Rock too...plus there are a lot of waterfalls close to Oconee....Yellow Branch, Issaqueena Fall and Stumphouse Tunnel....not far from Whitewater Falls either, highest falls east of the Mississippi, beautiful!!!

at 14:44:55 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Bonnie Gossett Jones Gap

at 14:47:07 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Kristie Patterson Parker Chau Ram Park is lovely

at 14:47:56 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Bonnie Hughes Hamm Hidden Falls is in Oconee St Pk, Yellow Branch Falls is right off Hwy 107 between Walhalla and Mt Rest. (on the hwy to Oconee)

at 14:48:29 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Charles Diane Finch go to Table Rock if you can.

at 14:51:29 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Len Lesslie For those suggesting Jones Gap, note that Nicki said "camping in a camper". From the website information on Jones Gap: "No drive up campsites are available on the park. There are no water or electricity provided at the campsites."

at 14:54:07 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Kristen Chapman Gibbons Jocassee, Table Rock, Oconee State...the choices are endless...make sure and check out Stumphouse Tunnel...

at 14:56:51 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Debbie McAvey Oconee is my fav...go there twice a year to hike and climb the waterfalls. Amazing and magical!!! Backpacking the whole foothills trail in april...cant wait!

at 14:57:48 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Larry Easler Camp Craft in Spartanburg is also nice. Lots of trails, canoeing and camping.

at 15:00:34 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Donna Sanders Bradley no question--Oconee State Park!!!

at 15:07:06 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Betsy Ridlehoover Robinson Oconee, of course. Above mentioned trails and not far from Whiteside Mountain with beautiful, safe views all around the mountain.

at 15:10:27 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Ginger Goforth Devil's Fork on Lake Jocassee for sure - site 41 is our absolute favorite, but it has a step down from the door. If that's a problem, site 40 is awesome too.

at 15:15:24 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Bea Weicksel Murdaugh Oconee definately...the fishing was great and rangers were wonderful.

at 15:17:30 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Russ Smith Devil's fork is good..but for sheer hiking, nothing beats Table Rock...connects to so many trails...

at 15:30:52 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Marianna Rigdon Thompson Wonderful info. I was thinking the same thing this week.

at 15:45:31 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Jay Clingman Oconee is my first choice, with Table Rock a close second.

at 15:47:11 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Chrissy Cosner Oconee is wonderful! Very quiet and family-friendly :)

at 15:49:03 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Rhonda Hyman Eldridge Table rock is the best! Table rock trail is a very good trail. Plus other good parks near by .

at 17:28:40 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Jennifer Hawkins Rogers Oconee State Park for sure! Not to cold yet and there are various trails-from easy to strenuous.

at 18:22:52 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Lisa Kirby There is Table Rock, Devils Fork that have great trails & room for campers.

at 19:23:20 on 10/18/2011 UTC

Susan Ulsenheimer Becker Oconee State Park would be my suggestion. Gorgous leaves, trails and the staff is the absolute best!!

at 0:18:16 on 10/19/2011 UTC

Laura Di Girolamo Simoes Cheraw State Park. Golf, canoeing, peaceful, serene. Great town also. Trails to hike, Go there.

at 2:37:14 on 10/19/2011 UTC

Al James Don't forget Paris Mountain. Great trails along small mountain streams and only 10 minutes from Greenville!

at 3:44:17 on 10/19/2011 UTC

Allen White Oconee State Park, Foothills trail, Yellow Branch trail (Issaqueena Falls), Stumphouse tunnel, Hidden Falls trail, Whitewater Falls, Old Waterwheel, Station Cove, Lee Falls, Oconee Connector of Palmetto trail, Chattooga River, to many to name. Also hopefully by end of November they will have stocked trout in the Lake. Come see us, build a fire, set back and relax after a hike.

at 4:02:50 on 10/19/2011 UTC