Danny and Catherine,

There aren't too many materials out yet, but a quick recap of the event can be found here: <http://www.bradwarthen.com/2018/02/the-conservative-case-for-clean-energy/> and a full video of the event is also available at the Palmetto Conservative Solar Coalition's Facebook page: <https://www.facebook.com/palmettoconservativesolarcoalition/videos/1507676962691904/>

Erick Erickson gave the keynote address, and then there was a panel moderated by Matt Moore (PCSC) which consisted of panelists Rep. Nathan Ballentine, Charles Hernick (CRES), Bret Sowers (SC Solar Business Alliance), Tyson Grinstead (Sunrun).

I'll share more materials as they come in.

Thanks,
Matthew

Danny, not a problem. We understand its a busy time.

Matt, can you please send some materials to Danny & Catherine when you have some time to do so?

Thanks,
BP

Hi Danny & Catherine,

We wanted to see if you and/or your staff could attend tomorrow's event below. Or part of the event.

Thank you,

Brandon Peck

Danny & Catherine,

Hope you've been well.

We simply wanted to bring the below event to your attention in the event you are able to attend.

The event to which we are referring is being put on by a group with whom we work called Citizens for Responsible Energy Solutions (CRES). CRES is an organization that is squarely focused on engaging conservatives on the issue of clean energy expansion through the lens of open-competition and free markets. They are a national organization in scope.

<https://www.eventbrite.com/e/solar-tariffs-and-the-future-of-clean-energy-in-sc-tickets-43167343687?ref=estw>

The focus is solar tariffs and the future of SC's clean energy economy.

Thanks for considering.
