

From: Moore, Camlin <CamlinMoore@gov.sc.gov>

To:

Date: 6/23/2016 8:24:54 AM

Subject: SC Front Pages – Thursday, June 23, 2016

SC Front Pages – Thursday, June 23, 2016

The Post and Courier

FOUNDED 1803 •

WINNER OF THE 2015 PULITZER PRIZE FOR PUBLIC SERVICE

Thursday, June 25, 2015

POSTANDCOURIER.COM

Charleston, S.C. $1.00

Clyburn, Dems stage sit-in for gun reforms

Protesters pushing for votes camp out in House, taunt Republicans

Democrats in Congress, including Rep. John Lewis, D-Ga. (center), participate in a sit-in protest Wednesday to seek votes on gun-control measures on the floor of the House in Washington. They were prepared to stay the night.

BY EMMA DUMAIN
edumain@postandcourier.com

WASHINGTON — House Democrats began the day meeting with their party's presumptive presidential nominee, Hillary Clinton. Then they went to the House floor and held a sit-in.

In a gun-reform protest that captured the nation's attention, Democrats on Wednesday urged a "no" on the chamber floor, refusing to yield to Republicans until they were presented with an expanding background-check law for gun buyers and banning gun sales to individuals on the "no fly" list. U.S. Rep. Jim Clyburn, D-S.C., was among the leaders of the demonstrators, who had sat for eleven hours till well past closing time on the night.

Starting around 11:30 a.m., Clyburn and dozens of other House Democrats, led by civil rights icon and U.S. Rep. John Lewis, D-Ga., gathered on the House floor to disrupt legislative hearings for the day.

Sitting on their side of the chamber — many of them planted on the floor — they would turn delivering impromptu, emotional and angry speeches for them-

Please see SIT-IN, Page A6

Clyburn

Trump blasts Clinton as 'world class liar'

Personal insults fly as focus shifts to general election

BY JULIE PAGE
and HIL COLVINS
Associated Press

NEW YORK — Donald Trump launched a blistering attack Wednesday on Hillary Clinton's record and character, slamming his presidential rival as a "wretched human" who nakedly pursued personal profit from her tenure as the State Department's top diplomat.

The billionaire businesswoman claimed "She gets rich making you poor."

Trump, who is vying for the nomination of the general election field, will face off against a candidate he has already named as his deepest personal enemy. The presumptive Republican nominee called Clinton the "most corrupt" person in government for accepting and accused her of spreading "death, destruction and fascism" while serving as the nation's top diplomat.

Clinton, campaigning in North Carolina, called Trump's charges

"ridiculous" and insisted he was being "ridiculous" for attacking her.

Trump has been polarized yet unassimilated as he attacked through several of Republican favorite critique of Clinton, including her use of private email as primary of note and her inaction in responding to the attacks on Americans in Benghazi, Libya. Several of his claims were inaccurate or exaggerated, including his incorrectly saying she wants to spend hundreds of billions in refugee Middle Eastern refugees in the United States.

Wednesday's address came at a pivotal moment for Trump's presidential campaign. The political novice has struggled with the transition to

Please see TRUMP, Page A6

Vi Duong Lelland and Anh Lee of West Ashley shop Wednesday at the H-E-B Asian Market on Rivers Avenue in North Charleston. The Vietnamese couple moved to the area two years ago and now attend the College of Charleston.

Charleston, state lead way as Asian population surges

Locals see influence culturally, politically

BY ABIGAIL EARLINGTON
aearlington@postandcourier.com

The Asian population statewide is the fastest growing racial group in the country, and its growth in South Carolina and particularly in the Charleston area slightly outpaces the national average according to the U.S. Census Bureau's latest report.

The group may be small — it makes up 2 percent of the state's population, and slightly more locally — but it has more than doubled in the past 15 years. Since 2010, the Asian population in South

Please see POPULATION, Page A6

USC may eliminate pledging for frats

Hazing, alcohol and drug abuse spur proposal

BY ANITA SELAIN
The Post and Courier

COLUMBIA — Fraternities can't stay out of trouble at the University of South Carolina.

Nearly 75 percent of the school's chapters, 13 in all, have been cited or placed on probation over the past three years for hazing, alcohol and drug violations. A pledge died last year from alcohol poisoning.

Frustration reached such heights that USC's third largest international fraternity and sorority will face an unprecedented summit this month.

At the summit, South Carolina's flagging university prepared a radical idea meant to curb hazing and cut down alcohol and drug abuse.

"We want the University of South Carolina to be the non-pledging university," Terry Brown, USC's associate vice president for student affairs, tells Post and Courier.

Please see PLUGGING, Page A5

Restroom settlement may spark changes

Dorchester 2 rights case could influence neighboring schools

BY DIANNA FAN
dfan@postandcourier.com

A civil rights settlement with the U.S. Department of Education that includes fair-treatment consequences not only for transgender students but for all students and staff in Dorchester District 2, may encourage neighboring Lowcountry school districts to adopt their own policies or risk facing similar lawsuits and federal oversight.

District 2's settlement, unveiled Monday, stems from a complaint a parent filed with the U.S. Department of Education's Office of Civil Rights last fall, claiming that the district discriminated against transgender students, by banning them from the girls' restroom at their elementary school.

Please see RESTROOMS, Page A5

Inside

CHARLESTON SCENE

Indie scene takes center stage at Hearts & Plugs' Summer Shindig, E14-16

BUSINESS

Wal-Mart to build fifth Neighborhood Market store in Charleston area, B1

Tiny rise in Social Security benefits next year, B3

Cloud
High 95° Low 78°
Complete 5-day forecast, B10

Bridge 19 Research 10/24 Movie 111
Business 11 Divinity 10/24 Ottobock 14
Carroll 62 Editors 11 Spring 13
Covers 68-9 Total 112 Internat. 12

Pirates of Charleston
Adventure $18 for 2
Tickets for 1.5 hour, $55 for a family of 4 1.5 hour. See A2

SPORTS
SPOTLIGHT ON SOCCER

LIFESTYLE
Greenville
man plays
Jeopardy

The Greenville News

PART OF THE USA TODAY NETWORK

THURSDAY,
JUNE 23, 2016
GREENVILLEONLINE.COM

HOUSE DEMOCRATS STAGE SIT-IN TO DEMAND GUN VOTE

PAGE 1B

Loftis' accuser had been fired as deputy

ROMANDO DIXON
rdixon@greenvillenews.com

A man who said he saw Sheriff Steve Loftis drinking during business hours was fired from the Greenville County Sheriff's office in 2013 after he was charged with driving under the influence in North Carolina.

Brendan Brown, a former deputy, thrust himself into the middle of a contentious race for Greenville County sheriff when he went public this week with allegations against Loftis. He appeared at a press conference Tuesday with Will Lewis, Loftis' challenger in a runoff for sheriff.

Loftis has said the allegations of drinking on the job are untrue.

Brown worked for the Sheriff's Office from 2002-13 and became friends with Loftis, the former deputy said. Brown was terminated after he was charged with suspicion of DUI in 2013 while driving his personal vehicle on vacation, Brown said.

Brown said he later worked at Outman Cigars & Martini Bar and became the general manager. Loftis said he has patronized the business and enjoys a cigar, and his favorite drinks are black coffee and ice water.

Brown did not dispute that Loftis would partake in those nonalcoholic drinks sometimes. But Loftis also drank cognac at the business many times, Brown said.

Brown said the suspicion of DUI charge was later dismissed.

Brown described Loftis as a great guy who has served the county honorably but thinks Lewis is the best candidate.

"My employment status doesn't change no matter which way the election goes," Brown said.

Brown, who is friends with Lewis, said he does not have an ax to grind against Loftis.

"This latest case of醒ance is nothing but two liars giving false information," Tab Bren, Loftis' campaign manager, said of Lewis and Brown, "and trying to somehow find a way to make up the difference in this campaign."

The runoff vote is Tuesday. Loftis earned 41.9 percent of the primary vote and Lewis had 18.7, according to official results.

Staff writer Anna Lee contributed to this report.

Judge Brian Gibbons addresses the court during the trial of Suzanne Brown Simpson in Pickens on Wednesday.

LELAND A. DAVIS

Defense rests in trial of Dacusville mom

Three expert witnesses describe defendant as severely disturbed woman incapable of telling right from wrong

RON BARNETT
rbarnett@greenvillenews.com

PICKENS - Two psychiatrists and a psychologist testified Wednesday that Suzanne Simpson was incapable of distinguishing between right and wrong when she killed her two young children and shot her husband in the head three years ago.

The three expert witnesses described a severely disturbed woman who believed her neighbor was the devil, that God spoke to her through a red light on her phone, and that her family wanted her to kill them and herself so they could all be together in a place somewhere between heaven and earth, to return after the evil that had turned the world into hell on earth was gone.

The defense in the case of the Dacusville woman rested its case after bringing forward the three forensic psychology experts, all of whom had interviewed Simpson for hours and studied her voluminous psychiatric records.

At the conclusion of the third day of the trial at the Pickens County courthouse, 13th Circuit Solicitor Walt Wilkins told Judge Brian Gibbons that he wanted to bring in a witness Thursday

See SIMPSON, Page 4A

Commission votes against multifamily developments in Greer

MICHAEL BURNS
mburns@greenvillenews.com

The Greer Planning Commission has recommended Greer City Council deny zoning requests for multi-family housing developments on Brushy Creek Road, but the seven-member board has recommended annexation of the properties be approved with zoning that would allow the construction of 136 single-family homes on about 31 acres.

Greer City Council is expected to consider the matter at its meeting on July 12, with planning commission recommendations in hand and developers given opportunity to speak. Residents who wish to address council on the topic may sign up to speak during the public forum at the meeting's beginning by registering their name prior to the meeting at City Hall.

After also attending an earlier meeting when the subdivision proposals were to be heard but were tabled, dozens of residents attended the planning commission meeting this week. They spoke of traffic, crowding and safety concerns around the area near Riverside High School, where plans for more than 1,000 new homes have been approved since the economic rebound of 2012, increasing congestion on two-lane Brushy Creek Road between Greer and Greenville.

According to a South Carolina Department of Transportation daily traffic count from 2015, about 8,000 vehicles typically travel Brushy Creek Road between Greer's South Main Street and South Sulber Road, which is just north of Alexander Road, while about 19,600 travel Brushy Creek between South Sulber and Hudson Road, which is just south of Taylors Road in the more densely populated area of Greenville's Eastside and Taylors.

Planning departments and commissions in Greer and Greenville

See COMMISSION, Page 2A

INSIDE

Abby 4D
Area news 3A
Baseball 4C
Books 4B
Business 8A
City People 3D
Classifieds 7C
Dish 4B
Entertainment 4D
Lifestyle 1D
Obituaries 8A
Television 4A
U.S. World 1B
Voices 8A

High 98
Low 77

www.greenvillenewsonline.com
Circulation hotline
800-736-7136
Classified Ads 298-4221

Greenville News/Medmont Co.
A Community Newspaper
600,000 readers, 125+ 12
pages

NBA DRAFT: LSU'S SIMMONS LIKELY TOP PICK

SPORTS, B1

ESCAPE, D1

Herald-Journal

SPARTANBURG, SOUTH CAROLINA

Thursday, June 23, 2016

GoUpstate.com

75¢

GoUpstate

@GoUpstate

TODAY
 96°/74°
 FRI
 93°/72°
 SAT
 87°/70°
 Complete forecast, B6

TOWN HALL

Improving access to mental health care, easing burden on jails

On Sunday, the Herald-Journal ran a special report on how the lack of access to mental health services have trapped some people in a cycle in and out of jail.

The problem detailed in "Locked In/Locked Out" is not unique to Spartanburg.

But communities like Baton Rouge, La., Bexar County, Texas, and Salt Lake County in Utah are trying innovative ways to get adequate mental health services to the people who need them. Those communities have seen savings to taxpayers and improved care to their most vulnerable residents.

The newspaper will host a town hall panel discussion at 7 p.m. Thursday to hone in on the issue in Spartanburg, what's working here and what's not, and to brainstorm ideas that could improve the situation.

Executive Editor Mike Smith will moderate the discussion, which will be held at the Herald-Journal's downtown office, 189 W. Main St., Spartanburg.

Panelists include Sarah Wallace, president of NAMI Spartanburg; Heather Witt, vice president of community impact at United Way of the Piedmont and co-chair of the Behavioral Health Task Force; Michael Brown, Spartanburg County Council member and criminal defense attorney; and Paton Blough, founder of ReHinge, a mental health advocacy and support group in Greenville.

The event is free and open to everyone.

Parking is available in the Herald-Journal employee parking lot. Attendees are asked to use the employee entrance, which faces that parking lot.

CAMPAIGN 2016

'World-class liar'

Trump blasts Clinton in withering speech, says she 'gets rich making you poor'

By Julie Pace And Jill Colvin
 The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Donald Trump launched a broad rebuke of his presidential rival Hillary Clinton Wednesday, accusing her of being "a world-class liar" who personally profited from her tenure at the State Department. "She gets rich making you poor," Trump said.

"Hillary Clinton may be the most corrupt person ever to seek the presidency."

— Presumptive Republican presidential nominee Donald Trump

Seeking to steady his campaign after a difficult stretch, the presumptive Republican nominee cast himself as the White House candidate best positioned to address Americans' economic interests.

"This election will decide whether

SEE CAMPAIGN, A7

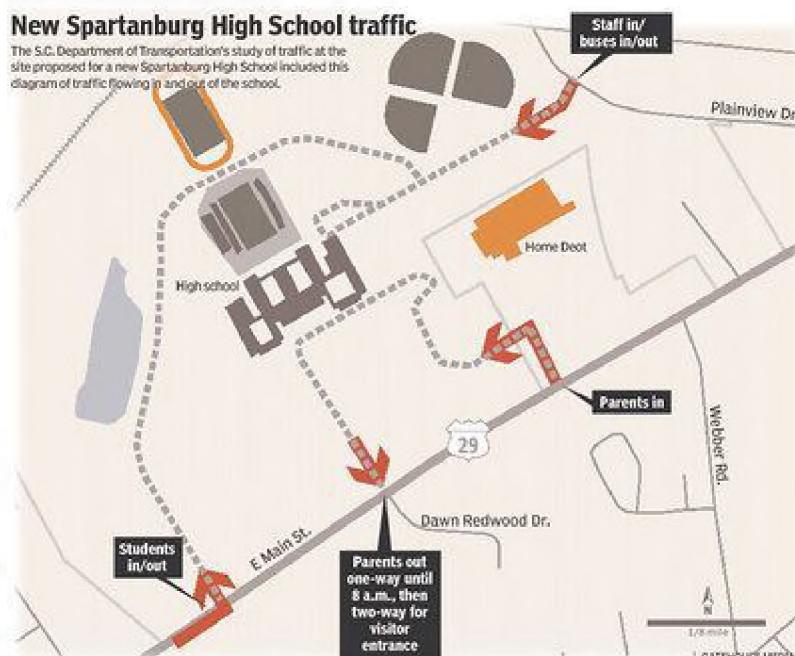

Republican presidential candidate Donald Trump speaks at the Trump Soho Hotel on Wednesday in New York. RICHARD IREBEY/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

21,500 CARS EVERY DAY

New Spartanburg High School traffic

The S.C. Department of Transportation's study of traffic at the site proposed for a new Spartanburg High School included this diagram of traffic flowing in and out of the school.

ON GRADUATION PRAYERS

Federal court nixes SC ruling

By Meg Kinnard
 The Associated Press

COLUMBIA — A federal court in Virginia ruled Tuesday that it's now up to a South Carolina judge to consider if members of a humanist organization can continue a legal challenge over prayers during graduation ceremonies at a public school.

In its ruling, a three-judge panel of the Richmond, Virginia-based 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said a federal court in South Carolina must also determine if it's constitutional for the public schools in the Greenville County School District to hold events at religious venues.

The dispute began in 2013, when the American Humanist Association filed a lawsuit on behalf of a fifth-grade student at Mountain View Elementary School, arguing that the school had been

SCDOT: Roads can handle traffic from new Spartanburg High

Nearby residents
 ... in electrical

Pointe Circle and Dawn Redwood Drive are acceptable to dropping students off and buses, White said.

NATION/WORLD

Aiken Standard

YOUR LOCAL NEWS SOURCE SINCE 1867

THURSDAY, June 23, 2016

AIKENSTANDARD.COM

Vol. 150, No. 175 Aiken, S.C. * * 25¢

Mall developer closing on Dillard's

Department store sale expected by end of month

BY CHRISTINA CLEVELAND
cleveland@aikenstandard.com

The Augusta-based developer who has purchased the Aiken Mall property said the firm plans to close on the Dillard's property at the mall site by the end of the month.

The mall deal closed in May. Dillard's was not a part of the deal because it is independently owned.

"We've had it under contract since January. After the announcement of the closing we plan to complete the purchase of the Dillard's facilities before the end of the month," Victor "Vic" Milk, CEO of Southeastern Development Associates, told the Aiken Standard on Tuesday.

Plans are to transform the mall into a mixed-use shopping and dining center.

Southeastern Development paid $5,025,000 for the Aiken Mall property, according to Aiken County property records. The deal consisted of two parcels: the mall site, excluding Dillard's, and an out-parcel occupied by Outback Steakhouse.

Milk told the newspaper when Southeastern negotiated the purchase of the mall, which also includes Dillard's, it hoped the store would stay open, but:

Please see MALL Page 12A

STAFF PHOTO BY ERICK K. GALT
The developer who purchased the Aiken Mall property is moving ahead with plans.

Youth Wing presents 'The Velveteen Rabbit'

STAFF PHOTO BY ERICK K. GALT

STAFF PHOTO BY ERICK K. GALT

Above, the Carey family watches as the Aiken Community Playhouse Youth Wing presented the Summer 2016 Garden Theatre production of "The Velveteen Rabbit." Caroline Taylor narrated. Daniel Atco played Boy. Ella Diskatz was the fairy, and Jessica Spire is Velveteen Rabbit.

STAFF PHOTO BY ERICK K. GALT

AREA DEATHS

Marion "Janie" Clark Holloway,
Aiken

Deaths and Funerals, 6A

More photos from the production | 12A

PHOTO GALLERY

Check out the photo gallery

Approving budget proved tough task for City Council

Roads, parks highlight City's $53 million spending plan

BY DAN BROWN
dbrown@aikenstandard.com

Aiken City Council was faced with some difficult, but necessary decisions when it came to approving its 2016-17 budget Monday.

Faced with a crumbling infrastructure, heavy traffic issues throughout town, several capital improvement projects too long gathering dust and members of almost repair programs, Council members dug in their heels, rolled up their sleeves and got busy during the six weeks leading up to Monday's second and final vote.

Included in the new budget is a new roads program funded by a $20 per vehicle minimum fee, as well as a new traffic improvement and safety program that will allow the city to work proactively on the maintenance of its 91 miles of City roads.

City leaders are also looking to develop new roads that would help relieve traffic congestion through town and at the new mall development that will be coming in the near future.

Also included in the traffic improvement and safety program is the building of new sidewalks, bike paths, parkways, improvements to the City's infrastructure, and the repair to the Department of Public Safety Headquarters.

Council also approved final plans for the new $2.4 million Youth Park Senior Youth Center and a $2.8 million Phase Two of the new Natchez Park.

Projects that have been gathering dust on City shelves are now moving forward and will be turning shovels in 2016.

Council member Leslie Price said she was pleased to see the City moving forward on many long-suspending projects and addressing the concerns Council had when it interviewed City Manager John Klimm for his position a year ago.

"In the interview we had when considering John Klimm, we asked him how he would implement a roads and infrastructure maintenance program," she said. "He really followed what council shared with him as our concerns for the maintenance repair of our City needs. The budget we passed and the fees we passed allows John to move this City forward in a positive way and implement some great plans for our City."

Price said nobody likes to add new fees and taxes, but these were necessary to address service problems in playing the City's cards.

"I pleased that we can message to all that these concerns and see them moved forward," she said. "And I pleased with new fees and taxes? No. But we have to make these difficult decisions to move the City forward. The roads are re-

Please see BUDGET Page 12A

Apply at Shire.com

We're hiring for our state-of-the-art biologics manufacturing facility east of Atlanta, GA. We want you to join our team!

- Manufacturing • Utilities/Process Maintenance
- Quality Assurance • Many Other Positions

Morning News

THURSDAY JUNE 23, 2016

TODAY'S WEATHER

Partly sunny and hot.
High 100, low 75.

DETAILS 2A

75 cents

www.scmnews.com

The Voice of the Pee Dee

Latta police chief plans sheriff bid

Crystal Moore collecting signatures, petitioning to be added to November ballot

BY JESSICA INBIMBO
Morning News
jimbimo@scmnews.com

Moore submitted by July 15. Moore said that starting Wednesday, she will go door-to-door every afternoon across Dillon County to collect the signatures needed.

"I'm excited," Moore said. "It's just time for a

If Moore obtains enough signatures and the paperwork is certified, she will be listed as a candidate for sheriff in the Nov. election.

Major Italian holds the position as Dillon County sheriff and is serving his sixth term. Italian barely edged challenger Douglas Purcell with 51 percent of the vote during the Democratic Party primary election on June 14. Italian will not face a Republican Party candidate in November.

Moore made the national news spotlight when she was fired by Latta Mayor Lindell Rollard in 2014. Shortly after the openly gay police chief was fired, a recorded phone conversation of Rollard was released in which Rollard said Moore's lifestyle was "questionable."

The town of Latta quickly rallied

Florence Radio Club to host Field Day

Licensed operators demo science, service behind amateur hobby

BY JESSICA INBIMBO
Morning News
jimbimo@scmnews.com

FLORENCE — The Florence Amateur Radio Club will be participating in National Amateur Radio Field Day exercises this weekend to demonstrate the role amateur radio has within the community.

The amateur radio, also known as "ham radio," exercises will begin at 2 p.m. Saturday at Ebenezer Park on 842 S. Ebenezer Road in Florence. When Saturday at 2 p.m. running continuously until Sunday at 2 p.m., the public and will run continuously until 2 p.m. on Sunday.

Club President Mac Cullen said during this year's field day, the club will operate a Morse code station, voice station, digital station and "Get on the Air" station. The Get on the Air station gives the general public a chance to be on air with licensed amateur radio operators.

A testing session will also be held during field day at 4 p.m. on Saturday for those wanting to pass the FCC requirements and become a licensed radio amateur.

Field day events such as this give operators the opportunity to showcase the skill and science behind amateur radio. For more than 100 years, this type of technology has allowed people to experiment with

Merging forces

Anne Layton, left, with the North Carolina disaster relief team, and Mae Woodberry share a word on the day of Woodberry's "homecoming." Her Johnsonville home was damaged in the October flooding.

NC Baptist team and Florence long-term recovery group celebrate first house completed since May

BY DEBORAH SWARINGEN
Morning News
dswaringen@scmnews.com

JOHNSONVILLE — Mae Woodberry cannot see the changes that have been made to her Johnsonville home.

But she knows. "I can't see none of it, but I can feel it," she said. Woodberry, a 90-year-old Johnsonville native, is blind.

In October, her home was destroyed during historic flooding that left parts of South Carolina.

Now, more than seven months after the flooding occurred, the home is refurbished. A celebration was held

See RECOVERY, Page 3A

Final chapter for Book Exchange

BY JOE PERRY
Morning News
jperry@scmnews.com

FLORENCE — Leo Tolstoy, Susan

White, proprietor of the venerable used-book store at 612 West Palmetto St. "Gud is good all the time and it's time for something different."

In its 29th year of business, White

LOCAL

Will plans for a shrimp farm take root in Beaufort County? 3A

SPORTS

Zika fears keep golfer Rory McIlroy home from Olympics 1B

THURSDAY JUNE 23 2016

75¢

VOLUME 46, NO. 115

STAY CONNECTED ISLANDPACKET.COM

FACEBOOK.COM/ISLANDPACKET

TWITTER.COM/ISLANDPACKET

MILTON HEAD ISLAND

THE ISLAND PACKET

RETIREMENT

Social Security benefit hike likely to be meager next year

Average increase in payment would be a little less than $2.50 per month

Trust fund that supports Medicare now projected to run out of money in 2028

Trustees say some Medicare beneficiaries to face sharply higher Part B premiums for outpatient care

BY STEPHEN ORLINSKY
AND RICARDO ALONSO-ZALETA
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Millions of Social Security beneficiaries can expect only a meager increase in monthly payments next year, the trustees who oversee the massive retirement and disability program said Wednesday.

Meanwhile, Medicare's finances have worsened since last year, according to the trustees' annual report.

The projected 0.2 percent increase in Social Security payments would come a year after beneficiaries received no increase. By law, increases are based on a government measure of inflation, which has been low.

More than 60 million retirees, disabled workers, spouses and surviving children receive Social Security benefits. The average monthly payment is about $1,282, so the average increase would be a little less than $2.50, enough to buy a gallon of gasoline in most U.S. markets.

Social Security's trust funds are projected to run dry in 2034, which is unchanged from a year ago. If that happens, Social Security would collect only enough in payroll taxes to pay 79 percent of benefits.

The trust fund that supports Medicare is now projected to run out of money in 2028 — two years earlier than projected last year.

If that happens, Medicare's fund for inpatient care would be able to pay only 87 percent of projected costs.

"Lawmakers should address these financial challenges as soon as possible," the trustees said in their report. "Taking action sooner rather than later will permit consideration of a broader range of solutions and provide more time to phase in changes so that the public has adequate time to prepare."

In more grim news, the trustees said that some Medicare beneficiaries will face sharply higher Part B premiums for outpatient care. By law, the premium increase for most Medicare recipients cannot exceed their increase in Social Security payments.

However, about 80 percent of Medicare recipients are exempt from that provision. They are

SEE BENEFIT, 7A

SCHOOL BOARD

Roth says censure violates procedure

Beaufort County school board member says peers broke protocol by censuring him

Roth, of District 6, says he was given a chance to defend himself in private

Fellow board member argues the board's policy is unclear. In question

BY REBECCA LARVER
rlarver@islandpacket.com

A day after being reprimanded for making disparaging comments about his peers, Paul Roth is firing back that he's not the only one on the Beaufort County school board breaking the rules.

The manner in which the board censured him Tuesday violates the board's own Code of Conduct, according to the greater Bluffton and Okatie representative, whom said he was absent from the meeting's public session due to the limited air conditioning in the meeting space.

Roth, before the board can vote to publicly state its disapproval of a member's actions, it is required to discuss the matter with the member in private, according to the

“
I AM SO PROUD OF ALL YOU HAVE ACCOMPLISHED.

“
DON'T TAKE LIFE TOO SERIOUSLY.

Bluffton woman, her dad help send messages beyond grave

“
IN CASE YOU WERE WONDERING, DEAR GRANDDAUGHTER, YOU WERE NAMED AFTER ...

“
I LOVE YOU!

Roth can vote to publicly state its disapproval of a member's actions, it is required to discuss the matter with the member in private, according to the

BY LIZ FEDDELL

BLUFFTON Sunday, June 26

olderman.com

FreeImages.com

and loans from

Post 20 plays Williamston Sports, 1B

INDEX-JOURNAL

Vol. 88, No. 24

 indexjournal.com

2 SECTIONS, 18 PAGES

THURSDAY, JUNE 23, 2016

DAILY 75¢, SUNDAY $1.50

Woodhurst breaks silence on controversy

By ADAM BENSON
abenson@indexjournal.com

With less than a week to go before her runoff election against challenger Chasity Copeland, Republican Clerk of Court Angie Woodhurst broke her nearly eight-month silence with the Index-Journal about a controversy that has swirled around the clerk's office for more than a year.

In a 1,530-word statement transmitted to the newspaper from her county email address on Tuesday, Woodhurst responded to media coverage surrounding her re-election bid. On Tuesday, Woodhurst's surrogate Dennis Clark told the paper's executive editor, Richard Whiting, that Woodhurst did not want any statement published unless the paper agreed to publish her statement in its entirety. Whiting told Clark the paper would not be able to honor that wish, noting it is standard practice for a newspaper to paraphrase and quote whole segments of statements. The paper did agree to send to Woodhurst the elements that were both paraphrased and excerpted in whole before publishing the story, which Clark agreed to on Woodhurst's behalf.

ANGIE WOODHURST

CHASITY COPELAND

But on Wednesday, Clark said Woodhurst wanted to withdraw her

The Index's view
■ Check out our editorial on this controversy on 6A. Read Clerk of Court Angie Woodhurst's entire statement at indexjournal.com.

statement entirely, saying the Index-Journal took her statement out of context. Whiting told Clark that in addition to publishing quoted portions of the statement, the paper additionally planned to post the entire statement on its website and direct readers to that link. That statement, which was made public record because she distributed it through her county email, was also sent to other media and Clark published pictures of it on Facebook.

In her emailed statement, Woodhurst directly addresses circumstances that led County Treasurer Sharon Setzer to alert the council last October that $21,100 disappeared from a child support fund run by Woodhurst's office between October 2014 and April 6, 2015.

See WOODHURST, page 3A

■ GREENWOOD

Community Indicators Project hires first project coordinator

By KATE PEARSON
kpearson@indexjournal.com

Robert Leon Grant III, the recently appointed Greenwood Community Indicators Project coordinator, said his love of the community is what motivated him to seek the position.

The 28-year-old's office is located in the United Center for Community Care building on Phoenix Street — the same building that once housed the Emerald Center, where his father, Robert Leon Grant Jr., worked. This has meant meaning to Grant as his dad recently died.

Stepping into the building where his father once worked is not the only time he's found himself in his father's footsteps — he also attended his father's alma mater, South Carolina State University, living in the same dorm and sharing many of the same professors.

Greenwood native, Grant's love of community was nurtured by his parents. His father served the community by teaching at John de la Flower, working at the Emerald Center and helping families at the Greenwood County Department of Social Services. His mother, Beonda Lewis Grant, taught at most of Greenwood's elementary schools during her life.

He pursued their passion for service, teaching middle school social studies in Spartanburg after he graduated from South Carolina State University where he was a teaching fellow. After four years of teaching, he attended graduate school at North Carolina State University, gradu-

RIDING AROUND TOWN

PHOTOS BY ADAM BENSON / INDEX-JOURNAL

More than 250 unclaimed bicycles collected by the Greenwood Police Department over the last 10 years are stored in a Wright Avenue warehouse.

Greenwood City Manager Charlie Barineau stands amidst more than 250 bicycles collected by police over the past 10 years.

City offloading unclaimed bicycles to nonprofits

By ADAM BENSON
abenson@indexjournal.com

One of Greenwood County's largest bicycle suppliers is preparing to give away its entire inventory for free.

On Monday, the City

Council gave its blessing to a request by City Manager Charlie Barineau to donate more than 150 stockpiled bicycles to several charitable organizations. The bikes, which are being warehoused in a utility shed on loan from

See BICYCLES, page 4A

Small business owners gather for awards luncheon

By DAMIAN DOMINGUEZ
ddominguez@indexjournal.com

Small business owners from across Greenwood gathered Wednesday at his more than 35 years of service in various committees and local organizations. Cliff Fagan was given the lifetime achievement award.

During the luncheon, attend-

Camlin Moore

Cell: 803-206-8236

Office: 803-734-8044