Mo:

If you could push out the information below that would be great. I think the finance people would benefit from the training since it is an overview of federal procurement standards. The team actually indicated they would rather talk to the people doing the procurement rather than the attorneys. Thank you!

FEMA's Office of Chief Counsel has established a Procurement Disaster Assistance Team (PDAT) which is comprised of FEMA attorneys dedicated to assisting disaster assistance applicants in adhering to federal procurement standards.

We currently have a PDAT in South Carolina who is ready to help subrecipients in dealing with procurement issues related to the severe flooding. The team plans to be here for at least the next week and is prepared to give presentations providing an overview of the procurement standards imposed by federal regulations when procuring services and property. The presentation can also be tailored to address specific concerns and issues. If you are interested in setting up a presentation please contact Danielle Maynard at dmaynard@emd.sc.gov or 803-667-2180.
