Ok. I can do that. I will turn the wireless off. That is probably the simple solution. I will stay off Wednesday and give you a call when I'm at work or just come on over. I'm available until noon Wednesday.

OK. The one I'm working on won't be ready by 2:30. If you take one on your desk, please don't connect it to the internet, including wireless at your house. You'll have to check that because it would probably automatically connect at your house if it's ever been logged into your wireless there. I hope to have this replacement laptop ready by end of day today or tomorrow morning. It will depend on when the encryption kicks in, which we don't control.

I actually am leaving at 2:30. I can come back by if I need to. Or I can just log off the system today and stay off. I can use the current one to do my document and stay offline.

Richele,

I'm working on a replacement laptop for you over here. How long will you be here today?
