Kevin, (Please confirm you got this email.)

Very nice to you meet and your lovely wife yesterday. Thanks for the time to take all our questions. Below is the follow up information regarding renewed freedom for Churches to discuss political concerns, and actually having a preferred point of view, without any violation of IRS tax codes, and related loss of 501(c) status. Debatably, Churches should have always had non-profit status, but the Obama Admin IRS declared Churches needed to file as 501(c) to be non-profit, and would violate that 501(c) if they discussed social issues, particularly political preferences, would lose that 501(c) and lose their non-profit status, hence would be required to pay taxes.

Below my signature block are 3 links: General Information, Wash Post coverage, White House specific executive order link, and a very informative discussion link with David Barton on this same topic.

Sincerely,
Eric Somerville
