South Carolina State Parks

at 23:30:00 on 8/19/2019 UTC

Did you know? It was on this day - August 19, 1780 - 239 years ago, that British provincial soldiers and loyalist militiamen were defeated at the Battle of Musgrove Mill near current-day Clinton, SC. This bloody battle was a surprising victory in the fight for independence by vastly outnumbered Patriot militia. Come walk where these patriots fought: <https://southcarolinaparks.com/musgrove-mill>

Michael Thomas I visited this site last year & was greatly impressed. I learned a good bit that day.

Dana Hevener This is one of our very favorite state parks. We love the trails, falls and especially all of the great historical information at the Visitor Center.

Jay Clingman You should have seen it before Frank Stovall got ahold of it...

Frank Stovall Jay Clingman thanks Jay - those were good days, and I had a lot of help from people like you.

Jay Clingman Frank Stovall I bow to the folks who mowed all the grass. I did have fun making maps from data you and others collected. And saving a tree or two.

Eric Murdock I love this park and that the rangers will let you dry fire a musket with a flint spark and take a picture of you

Libby Peck Thank you for the recommendation. This is one of the few state parks that we haven't visited. Do they offer camping?
