- 1) "According to new federal data released Thursday, Medicaid and Children's Health Insurance Program enrollment increased in South Carolina by about 100,000 people - a 12.4 percent jump - between July 2013 and October 2014. Total enrollment in these programs now approaches 890,000 residents in the Palmetto State."

- 2) "And there's another reason everyone knows this place: Thousands of people around St. Joseph have been sued by the hospital and had their wages seized to pay for medical bills. Some of them, given their income, could have qualified to get their bill forgiven entirely — but the hospital seized their wages anyway."
