

Account: South Carolina State Parks

Content type: Facebook Page - Timeline posts

Record ID: 20140121South-Carolina-State-ParksTimeline-posts52748_10152154894678166

South Carolina State Parks

at 16:30:00 on 1/21/2014 UTC · 🌐

TIDBIT! For several months of the year, male whitetail deer, known as bucks, are easily recognized by the presence of antlers on their head, which the females lack. Members of the deer family are the only animals that possess antlers. DID YOU KNOW antlers are the fastest growing living tissue on the face of the earth?

Ruthie Player Cool !!

at 16:31:48 on 1/21/2014 UTC

Jon Stegmeir Or elk?

at 16:45:31 on 1/21/2014 UTC

Don Foley antelope and caribou also

at 16:52:18 on 1/21/2014 UTC

Lynn Burns They said deer family (cervidae) which includes caribou and elk. Antelope have horns not antlers.

at 17:15:51 on 1/21/2014 UTC

South Carolina State Parks You're exactly right, Lynn Burns! We were referring to the deer family that includes whitetail deer, caribou, elk and moose!

at 19:27:46 on 1/21/2014 UTC

Elaine Chartier Is he eating a giant piece of candy corn?

at 21:40:53 on 1/21/2014 UTC

Heather Harrison beautiful creature~

at 2:50:19 on 1/22/2014 UTC

David Caine Beautiful and regal animal. Blessing for the eyes.

at 6:47:12 on 1/22/2014 UTC