Description/Significant Features:

The African/African-American cemetery is situated on a knoll; bounded on the north by an embankment and surrounded by large live oaks. The western boundary is denoted by a farm road extending south from the Fife Plantation gate to the main house on Long Knoll. The eastern boundary, though tenuous, is thought to be a farm road and a group of beehives. The cemetery may extend further east, but a pedestrian walkover of this area did not reveal any evidence of markers or oval depressions. There are fourteen marble markers, one marble footstone, and several depressions. Estimated number of burials >20.

Historical Information

Historical Information:

The approximately 2-acre cemetery first appears on the 1859 plat of Fife Plantation, a 746 acre rice plantation owned by Jas. B. & Wm. Henry Heyward and surveyed by Jno. D. Crook in May 1859. The cemetery most likely used prior to 1859 to inter the plantation's deceased African and African American slaves. The plantation's title chain, which is based upon historic maps and oral history, is as follows: Thomas Young, Esq. (1825); Jas. B & Wm. Henry Heyward (1859/1860); C. H. Mitchell (1875); Al. Chisholm (1833); Lynah (1900-1901); James Lynah (1931, 1935); Robbie Harrison (current).
