Good Morning Catherine,

Thank you so much for your email and I am very interested in sitting down with you all again. Please have Lorianne or the appropriate person contact me at their convenience and we can set up a time. I will be out of town for a family commitment on Friday, July 13, but otherwise can meet at the times that work best for us both. I am sorry about the air conditioning woes - I hope you are all staying cool this week. Thank you again for your email and I look forward to hearing from you. I hope you all enjoy the upcoming holiday.

Best,

Good Afternoon Nicole,

I wanted to reach out and let you know we are in the process of setting up second interviews. We are very interested in having you in for a second interview and are working on finding a few times that work for our office. Unfortunately, there were some issues with the air conditioning in the Office on Aging this week that put much of their work behind schedule.

Best Regards,

Subject: Thank You

Good Evening Catherine,

Thank you very much for meeting with me earlier today; it was so nice to meet a fellow Northeasterner and it made me feel right at home!

I am so appreciative for the opportunity to hear an in-depth explanation of the Office on Aging, and it was great to hear your perspective on the office generally, but also some of the tough questions that have arisen as a result of recent legislative actions. I am also thankful for your thoughtful questions about my background, attentiveness, and your comments about it taking a person about 18 months to truly grasp the nuances of the Office and both the federal and state laws governing its actions.

After meeting with you today, I am still enthusiastic about joining the Office on Aging and contributing to its important work here in South Carolina. I am confident this position will complement my existing skill set and allow me to develop a deep understanding of the interplay between the Older Americans Act and its effect on both the Office and its stakeholders. As I mentioned today, I am also particularly drawn to this position for the interaction with stakeholder groups which, apart from the challenging legal issues, was my personal favorite part of my work with AOPL. During my time with the Association, I had the opportunity to communicate with member company employees at all levels, from new regulatory accountants to C-suite executives, many of whom keep in touch with me and I consider personal friends.

Please do not hesitate to contact me for additional writing samples, personal/professional references, or if you have any other questions after our meeting today. Or, if you would like to grab lunch or coffee sometime, it would be great to connect with you for some Northeastern fellowship.

Again, thank you for your time and consideration. I look forward to hearing from you and hope you enjoy the rest of your week.

Regards,

Nicole M. Given, Esq.
