

From: Jingles The Push Elf <blast=pushdigital.com@cmail20.com>
To: Veldran, KatherineKatherineVeldran@gov.sc.gov
Date: 12/23/2016 1:15:06 PM
Subject: Happy Holidays from the Push Team and Jingles!

Hello Friends!

Jingles the Elf here to wish you a happy holiday season! Wow, it's hard to believe that Christmas is only two short days away. I sure do love Christmas. It's my absolute favorite holiday.

It's a time where family and friends come together to celebrate, and there's always delicious food and drinks in the mix too! What could be better?

This holiday season, I hope you take a second to remember all the gifts you have in life. I don't mean the wrapped ones underneath the tree, but instead the gifts that we often take for granted. Family. Friends. Happiness. Coffee. Chocolate.

This year, I'm grateful for my many adventures at the Push Digital office. There was just so much exploring to do, I didn't know where to start!

With the Frothy Beard Brewery just months away from opening its doors, I had an entire construction zone to keep me busy, and let me tell you, the whole construction business? It's a blast! Sure, it's dirty work, but oh is it rewarding!

The best part of working in a construction zone? Getting to drive a fork lift, of course! Now, THAT was awesome! I definitely need to buy me one of those machines. Talk about power! Maybe Santa will bring it for me if I'm extra good today and tomorrow... Hmm no promises on that one.

Although construction is plenty exciting and all, it's also quite exhausting work. After a few hours of helping the crew members, I often found myself on the Push side of the office catching naps in the afternoons. Sometimes even with these little furry things.

I also got to help out in the Push office! Working with those computer things is tougher than it looks... It took me a while to get the hang of typing. And that big machine that spits out paper? Forget it. The boss was a little upset with me for breaking that one. Woops!

Friday afternoons were definitely my favorite part of the week though! You guys HAVE to try Frothy's Peppermint Porter. Wow. It's delicious! Talk about Christmas in a cup. YUM!

All in all, my time at Push has been fantastic! You all have to come check out the brewery in February. It's going to be so cool! Hey, maybe I'll see you there!

Until then, I hope everyone has a very Merry Christmas!

Jingles the Elf

