

Account: South Carolina State Parks

Content type: Facebook Page - Photos

Album: Timeline Photos

Record ID: 20130105South-Carolina-State-ParksPhotos52748_10151329473993166

South Carolina State Parks

at 23:36:38 on 1/05/2013 UTC

Just a reminder to be careful and aware of your surroundings while geocaching. This copperhead was found under a cache at Lake Wateree State Park by the park manager today. Stay safe!

David Warren I think every snake in South Carolina is at that park. Even in the winter time. The place is crawling with them. ha ha I still visit though.

at 23:39:24 on 1/05/2013 UTC

Ken Kirkley YIKES!!!

at 23:39:28 on 1/05/2013 UTC

Jamie Moncrief And I used to really enjoy geocaching...

at 23:39:48 on 1/05/2013 UTC

Avis Havel Hutchinson i imagine it was pretty sluggish today, though...brrrrr.

at 23:40:36 on 1/05/2013 UTC

Sue Ann Tarkenton Snakes just want to feel safe and hidden. They are amazing critters. I don't want to be surprised by them though. LOL

at 23:41:31 on 1/05/2013 UTC

Jennifer Miklos Holstein This is not the cache you are looking for. Lol

at 23:42:14 on 1/05/2013 UTC

Jay Leeper Saw my first beaver there... right around the corner from the boat launch...

at 23:46:00 on 1/05/2013 UTC

Kathy Turner Mabry I thought snakes are hibernating.

at 23:46:41 on 1/05/2013 UTC

Missy Love Murphy Yuck !!!

at 23:48:42 on 1/05/2013 UTC

Bonnie McLendon McKenzie Sneaky snake.

at 23:51:06 on 1/05/2013 UTC

Travis Cowan Terrain Rating: 5!!!'

at 0:00:08 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Charles O. Green Van Ward Zachary Ward - be careful out there!

at 0:03:31 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Cathy Robbins Shouldn't they be hibernating or is it too warm there? Nice picture though! It would make a nice RealTree design!!
at 0:09:08 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Mary Gavlik Yikes. Thanks for the heads up.
at 0:10:09 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Jason Goetz Looks like its sleeping lol zzzzzz
at 0:11:06 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Belle Boone I'd have had a heart attack if I'd picked up a cache and saw that snake. I doubt I would ever go caching again.
at 0:13:25 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Jane Harrington What is geocaching?
at 0:14:46 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Wendy Weeks Copperheads are gorgeous snakes and you really have to keep your eyes open for them...I almost stepped right on one in Dungannon!
at 0:14:46 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Version: Current

Tags: edited

Cicero McLellan Jr Jane...it's kind of like a treasure hunt where you use your GPS or other devices to help you locate items.
<http://www.geocaching.com/>

at 0:20:47 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Nichole Diane Lollis Just great when I thought wintertime was my best time to geocache. I need to move back to Alaska no snakes.
at 0:25:41 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Sue Farmer Jane...if you like to out doors you'll Love Geocaching. They have apps for smart phones as well. Try it!!! :-) Happy Caching!!! They are everywhere, not just in parks.
at 0:26:59 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Joann Ward Oh my! I have stuck my hands in lots and lots of dark places looking for a cache!
at 0:33:15 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Tammy Wiggins Evans You know what i say-The only good snake is a boot!
at 0:35:17 on 1/06/2013 UTC

David Warren I went to Landsford last January and saw three snakes. They like to sun and get warm.
at 0:41:33 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Sharon Clark that is scarey ... I did not even see him until i read the caption and looked again...
at 0:45:56 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Lisa Freeman Good thing for the manager that discovered him, it's cold and he is probably moving really slow!
at 0:47:48 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Belinda Gilbert-Parham OMG!!! Thanks for sharing. We just did a lot of geocaching at Hunting Island while on vacation. My kids love it. Guess we better be careful!!!
at 1:08:31 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Rebecca Austin Crosby Eek. We just started too! Thanks for the reminder!
at 1:09:28 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Keli Myers Eww
at 1:10:03 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Cathy Hicks Look what you might find Bradley Mitchell when you go geocaching.
at 1:27:08 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Bradley Mitchell Yea an Robert Dwayne Williams will see this big ol boy light out like a bullet lol
at 1:28:06 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Fran Young Oh my goash!!!
at 1:32:00 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Michelle Brown King He's beautiful. Perfect specimen.
at 1:37:00 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Jamie Dale Wingo oh wow - Cathy Taylor Olsen, tagging you so you can see this! Please be careful :)
at 2:12:09 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Doobie David Starnes Theres not but one good kind of snake and thats a dead one!!!!
at 2:15:58 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Ken Anderson I've been caching once. Came home with a tick attached to my leg. That was it for me.
at 2:28:51 on 1/06/2013 UTC

David Williams Watch out Shelly Quinn!
at 2:31:54 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Jessica Long Boulware oh wow!
at 2:56:32 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Jamie Moncrief Well, I USED to enjoy geocaching....
at 3:23:20 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Dale Mahaffey He was really hidden in there! I wouldn't have seen him until it was too late for me!
at 3:54:06 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Genie McDonald You guys! Snake don't want anything to do with you and they just trying to make a living. Just learn how to NOT behave outdoors and you'll be fine? Right, Duane?
at 7:07:12 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Karen Elks I almost stepped on one in my yard lat summer, it wascoiled up just like in leaves the same colors. It is a dead snake now !!!!
at 12:25:53 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Teresa Young I don't care for snakes....most go and hide from you but as a park ranger told me copperheads don't make noise so be careful. I enjoy caching in the "winter" because I assumed all snakes are hibernatingwell you know what happens when you "assume". Makes me more alert.
at 14:17:36 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Holly Ann Taylor Leave them alone and they'll leave you alone. That would raise my blood pressure seeing this under the cache! I don't think I'd put the cache back easily.
at 14:20:22 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Elaine Asper I'm jumping and yelling from this distance!!!
at 15:21:58 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Christina Matthews And just when I was thinking I might like to try this!
at 16:00:51 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Art Eats Bakery I used to live in St. Matthews and we had them every where.
at 16:48:28 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Carla Jordan Fell That cache is hidden in a hole, that's why the snake was under it. Just be cautious!!
at 17:00:17 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Kay Poteat OMG!!! Glad this big guy wasn't home when we got the cache. A Smiley we seek, NOT a snake!!!
at 17:09:28 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Ginny Merett @Carol Robertson
at 17:37:31 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Larry Barber Brrrrr
at 19:48:22 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Version: Current

Tags: edited

Genie McDonald Good snake "BRUMATION" info...
<http://www.knowpickens.com/pressrelease.asp?PressRelease=677>

at 20:30:33 on 1/06/2013 UTC

Mary Elise Wallace awwwwwwwwww I love snakes ^_^
at 23:46:53 on 1/07/2013 UTC

Brian Young - Photographer I've stepped on a copperhead once. I was lucky enough to have stepped on him right behind his head so he couldn't swing around and bite me. The scariest part was taking my foot off him and getting away. Now I poke holes, soft spots, and brush like this with a monopod or a hiking stick just to make sure. Copperheads aren't really bad at Wateree, at least not as bad as Landsford Canal. I have seen dozens of them there.
at 2:27:41 on 1/11/2013 UTC