From: Brandon Olson <OlsonBrandon@publichealth.org>
To: Kester, Tonykester@aging.sc.gov
Date: 3/18/2015 2:52:23 PM
Subject: Volunteer Opportunities in Public Health

Hi Tony,

I'm on the community outreach team for PublicHealth.org. We recently published an information guide about volunteer opportunities in public health, and I'm contacting you as part of our campaign to reach organizations that have shown an interest in sharing this type of resource.

Many organizations that serve the public health needs of communities find themselves in an untenable situation. They're faced with a rapidly growing need for workers in the face of shrinking budgets. One way they can cover this gap is with volunteers. In an effort to help pair individuals who want to make a difference with organizations in need, we put together the guide, Volunteering in Public Health.

You can help us encourage and educate prospective volunteers about opportunities in public health by sharing a link to our information guide. Our hope is that it will help move people to action, including visitors to aging.sc.gov.

Volunteering in Public Health can be found here: http://www.publichealth.org/volunteering/ .

Please let me know if this is something you might share as it helps inform future campaigns.

Thank you for your time,

Brandon Olson
PublicHealth.org
Outreach Coordinator
P.O. Box 52755
Houston, TX 77052
OlsonBrandon@publichealth.org

PublicHealth.org is an independent source of public health information and resources. We believe there's never been a more important time to reduce confusion and uncertainties surrounding healthcare. PublicHealth.org is dedicated to connecting patients, students, and professionals to the latest and most useful healthcare information and resources available.

Volunteering in Public Health has been shared by a number of organizatons, including ConstructingHope.org and JerseyCares.org.

If you would prefer not to receive emails from us in the future, please reply with "Remove" in the subject line.