

Dear Governor Nikki Haley,

So isn't it odd that a movement so bent on freedom, inclusion, diversity, equality and love (#lovewins) is also the most militant and aggressive against other people who refuse to accept or promote them as normal?

The LGBT community want the freedom to marry but won't allow the freedom of others to dissent or have nothing to do with their marriage. The LGBT want the government 'out' of their own lives but wants the government 'in' the lives of those (to prosecute and persecute) who disagree with them. And now they want 'confused' men in the same restrooms and showers as my mom, my grandma, my daughter, my sister, etc? And I get sued if I disagree?

The heterosexual community is falling all over itself to help the LGBT community in their rise to power. Why? Just to feel good about ourselves? Are we so full of self-loathing that we bow down to people who coerce our support or risk them labeling us as bigots? Our ministers, our leaders, our politicians and our corporations (among many others) can't wait to become an ally (or puppet) of this movement that eagerly punishes anyone who dares defy them. Like who, you ask?

- 1) How about bakers Aaron and Melissa Klein of Oregon; a family (with 5 children) who paid $135,000 in fines for politely declining to serve a gay wedding.
- 2) We have fire chief Kelvin Cochran of Georgia who was fired for expressing his personal views against homosexuality in a book he wrote OFF the clock and outside of work.
- 3) We have a florist Barronelle Stutzman of Washington who refused her services for a gay wedding (she serves gay people, just not gay weddings) but is now being sued for all her money, savings, her business and even her personal home. We are putting this grandmother on the streets in an effort to be 'tolerant' and 'inclusive'. What if this were your grandmother? Is this what justice looks like?
- 4) We have another baker Jack Phillips of Colorado who refused a gay wedding and is facing legal fines, jail time and mandatory sensitivity training for both he and all his staff.
- 5) Wow. Poor County Clerk, Kim Davis of Kentucky was in jail for her beliefs!

- 6) How about Dr. Paul Church of Beth Israel Deconess Medical Center? As a nearly 30 year, professional urologist, he had medical concerns over the sexual dangers of the homosexual lifestyle and attempted multiple times to warn his employer. He was fired from Beth Israel Deconess Medical Center for discriminating behavior.....NOT faulty research OR malpractice.
- 7) Manny Pacquiao, you know the Christian, philanthropist boxer; how is he doing after daring to disagree with gay marriage?
- 8) The entire state of North Carolina!
- 9) New York now has a 'bathroom/gender bill' that punishes anyone who refuses to address someone by their 'imagined' gender and punishes anyone who refuses to allow a man to use a woman's restroom/shower facilities. The punishment is $250,000.

Yeah, these 'bathroom bills' are quite ridiculous. Most Americans refuse to allow grown men (who think they are women) the fantasy of using restrooms/showers designated for women and girls. The LGBT know this so they deceptively wrap their position in language like 'anti-LGBT', 'discrimination' and 'equality'. It's a scam and everyone is falling for it. How sad have we become?

Who punishes tax paying citizens for not acknowledging other people's fantasies? No matter how much you fine, imprison or harass people, you can't change everyone's reality to meet someone else's specific fantasy. We should rather help them overcome this issue or help them cope with their issue. We should not force the whole world to celebrate or encourage their issue. That never helps. How strong can a country be where the men think they are women even though it's a scientific and biological impossibility? Which society built itself while not knowing the difference between heterosexual marriage and gay marriage? Why not allow individual businesses to determine their own bathroom policy rather than forcing everyone to conform to a certain government mandated policy? Isn't this what freedom is all about? I'm tired of being told it's my civic duty to promote other's fantasies!

I sympathize with the LGBT community but I don't agree that they deserve to influence my kids in school, rewrite US laws so they win every lawsuit or be celebrated as normal knowing that if even half of the US population were LGBT, our nation would cease to exist (no more people) within 3 generations!

So I urge you to create bills and state laws that use the LGBT's main weapon against them: language. They have controlled and redefined the language. You're either with them or you are a 'bigot'.

Like North Carolina, pass a bill that prevents the government from allying with special interest groups and forcing people into submission on things like weddings or restroom usage. Call it 'The Women and Children' safety act which would prevent men, predators or gender confused individuals from occupying the same private space as women and children. Anyone who disagrees (like the LGBT) is conducting a 'War on Women' AND a 'War on Children'!

How about a new 'Pro-Choice' movement? But this movement has nothing to do with abortion but everything to do with 'choosing' whether you want yourself (or your business) to be involved in a gay wedding. Wouldn't that be ironic? "Yes, I am pro-choice. No, I don't believe in abortion but I believe I have the choice whether to facilitate a gay wedding or not. Shouldn't everyone be pro-choice?" Imagine that; being pro-choice and pro-life at the same time but in two different context!

Let's take a quick quiz:

- a) Everyone MUST belong to a church or the government will fine you each month you refuse to go.
- b) Everyone MUST own a gun or the government will prosecute you for endangering your family due to lack of protection/security.
- c) Everyone MUST adopt at least one black person into their family or you will face jail time for lack of diversity in your family.
- d) Everyone MUST celebrate/promote gay marriage or the government will prosecute you and shut down your business.

Which one is 'totalitarianism'? Answer: all of the above.

If you have already engaged in the fight against this insanity, PLEASE continue. If you are not fighting and are considering surrender....think again. Every mom, daughter, niece, aunt, grandmother and sister needs you to keep them safe AND keep the transgender confusions to themselves; not spread it to everyone else. Please pass this letter along!
