Vijaykumar What's common between iPhones, Barbies and Petrol?
They are all made in China now! Here's something you don't hear every day - "China has become an accidental exporter of fuel," said John Driscoll, chief strategist at JTD Energy Services Pte, who has spent more than 30 years trading crude oil and petroleum in Singapore. "They have overbuilt refining capacity, domestic demand has moderated and the teapots have entered the fray." Full story here
