

Dear Governor Haley:

I am a Long Islander who has taken up space in South Carolina.

Along comes Hurricane Matthew & wound up in Greenville to get away from the storm.

The down town Charleston flooding made me think.

You can't pump water back into the harbor or the ocean. So why not reroute the flood waters with drainage piping along the wall & somehow reroute it into the Cooper River or create a man made lake to stop the flooding. Like I said it's just a thought. I don't know if it will work or not.

I also would like to say what a great job you did to protect your citizens. Very impressed.

Respect
