at 21:08:57 on 6/26/2020 UTC

Cheryl Hudson Passey Those are great records to help connect families after slavery.

at 21:20:34 on 6/26/2020 UTC

Cheryl Hudson Passey Studies show only a small amount of the enslaved took the name of the enslaver.

at 21:22:04 on 6/26/2020 UTC

Stacey Adger Had a Gist family up here who were friends with my parents for years. I believe Union County SC.

Sherry McManus Very interesting !!

at 21:40:04 on 6/26/2020 UTC

Hannah Marley That's so cool! I think one of my favorite things about historic sites like this is when you can stand in places like that and feel the connection to the people who were there in the past.

South Carolina State Parks Hard to hear

at 21:42:19 on 6/26/2020 UTC

Joy Burke Raintree Thank you for sharing the stories of the people who have a personal connection and see this as more than history!

at 21:42:49 on 6/26/2020 UTC

Cheryl Hudson Passey Love the connection with history.

at 21:42:52 on 6/26/2020 UTC

Stacey Adger So interesting and so many surnames tied to my families. Nate, I am still searching for that one male from 1901 we talked about.

at 21:43:16 on 6/26/2020 UTC

Cheryl Hudson Passey Yes...the trees would circle the house. Great insight Joseph!

Frances Koogan Fernandez Thank you Slave Dwelling Project. These are the stories I want to hear and I want my children to hear. We visited a small plantation near Weaverville, NC last summer and for the first time ever (in my experience), the tour guide focused on the enslaved people. We were so thrilled and made a point to let her know how much we enjoyed and appreciated this perspective. She noted that these are the people with no towns or roads named after them, but were the people that allowed the land to prosper. So refreshing!! So excited to hear this is A project not just an isolated event.
