Subject: why

Friend,

With the end of the month approaching quickly, I wanted to take a minute to reach out and explain what exactly is at stake this election.

Why I'm running: Listen, I truly love South Carolina. Representing the hardworking families of our state and working to make sure that America's best days are not behind us is exactly why I do what I do.

I want all South Carolinians to have the opportunity to succeed, and I know that together we can make that a reality.

This election is critical: 2014 is the first time my name will appear on the ballot as a candidate for Senate. We're feeling good, but we know that there are plenty of big money, radical progressives in Washington who would love to see us lose.

If we lose, their friend Harry Reid is one step closer to a filibuster-proof majority. We can't allow that to happen.

Please, I need your support today. We can win this November, but first we need to hit our August fundraising goal of 150 donations.

Thanks for standing with me,

Tim Scott
