Governor Haley: My comments about having a state water czar position not report directly to your office is an attempt to take water management out of the political arena. If we ever determine how much water SC has during 100 year droughts, how much we are using, and how much we have available for future growth, there really won't be too much more to say about the subject. It will be a matter of proper resource allocation.

I would be happy to discuss my views with you at any time, which would make a great day for me in South Carolina.

Thank you for your public service to South Carolina.

Gentlemen: I have been saying for several years that DHEC should be out of the state water business. DNR should get all of DHEC's water responsibilities, and DNR should be elevated to a cabinet level position that does not necessarily report to the Governor, but maybe one of the Natural Resources Committees. It would appear that now is a good time to enact these changes.
