Subject: The CFPB invites you to participate in a website study

Good afternoon,

The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB) is working to make our website, consumerfinance.gov, easier to use and we need your help. We're conducting a very short online study specifically targeted at users like you. We'd like to gain a better understanding of how you will use the content on our website.

If you'd like to participate, please click the link below. It should take no more than 3-4 minutes total.

Please note that we will not be collecting personal information. Thank you, in advance, for helping us make our website better!

Sincerely,
