

Account: South Carolina State Parks

Content type: Facebook Page - Timeline posts

Record ID: 20150407South-Carolina-State-ParksTimeline-posts52748_10153195773463166

South Carolina State Parks

at 19:00:01 on 4/07/2015 UTC · 🌐

The vibrant and bold colors of spring are here! Leading the parade of beauties is the elegant Zephyranthes atamasca, commonly known as the Atamasco. They can be seen driving into Myrtle Beach State Park and near the oaks at the north end of the park. Competing with all the intense green spring leaves are other brilliant colors that include the pink red bud tree, yellow jessamine, purple lyre leaved sage, and the white dogwood tree. Come out and enjoy spring at Myrtle Beach State Park!

Robert H. Riley My favorite flowers

at 6:32:22 on 4/08/2015 UTC

Ian Jones ".....commonly known as the Atamasco lily."

at 12:42:03 on 4/13/2015 UTC