He says he is working on "a short story for the one year anniversary of the removal of the confederate flag from Statehouse grounds and the economic impact this has had on S.C." Wanted to know whether S.C. has seen additional opportunities as a result.

Avery Wilks with The State newspaper asked:

Since we're coming up on the 1 year anniversary of the removal of the conf flag from the statehouse grounds, I wanted to know if you've seen an economic impact in SC.

Commerce's proposed response:

Long before last summer's events, Team SC worked hard to make our state have the best business climate in the world, which is evidenced by the globally-recognized brands that have decided to do business within our borders. We are a forward-thinking state committed to a future of prosperity.
