One-Stop Shop of Information for Our Returning Veterans

Hello Tony,

One of the greatest problems facing our combat veterans is simply not knowing what is available to them in the way of help and support.

This is especially true for behavioral-health needs — needs that are too often life-threatening. There are many fine resources from the military and VA systems, but there are also often extremely helpful community-based programs that are completely unknown to a veteran.

It does, in fact, take a collaborative effort to reach out to our returning veterans and service members to help them get the assistance they need. There is way to do this that was piloted in Maryland and California – it is called the Network of Care.

The Network of Care for Veterans, Service Members & Their Families was developed in partnership with the National Association of State Mental Health Program Directors; the National Association of County Behavioral Health & Developmental Disability Directors; the National Association of Counties, and a wide variety of veterans' and military organizations. The program is free to the public and commercial-free as well.

The Network of Care has been extremely successful and can easily be replicated and customized to any local jurisdiction or state. It is the only one-stop shop of information in the nation.

If you have any questions or would like a more in-depth demonstration of how the Network of Care works, please contact me directly at Bronzan@trilogyir.com or (415) 458-5900.
