Subject: For Governor Nikki Haley: An invitation to speak at the Second Jerusalem Leaders Summit, Waldorf Astoria Jerusalem, December 19, 2016 - ILS, Heritage Foundation, ADDE

"Global leaders gather in Jerusalem to discuss shifting geopolitical challenges – and demonstrate support for the Jewish state. Jerusalem continues to rise as a global center for intellect and exchange of ideas – and such was the case last week, when the conservative group International Leaders Summit chose the city as its venue for a policy conference."

At the second Jerusalem Leaders Summit scheduled for December 19, 2016, leaders from Europe, India, Israel and the United States will address the 21st century's global threats and security challenges, the weakening of the rule of law, and obstacles to economic freedom and free trade.

This will be the first post-election opportunity for US legislators, leaders from political arena and leaders from business, think tanks, media and academic circles to affirm America's strong ties with Israel, and advance U.S.'s leadership in foreign policy, security and trade with long-standing partners.

The Summit builds upon high-level meetings in Europe and the United States. These meetings brought together US Senators, members of the US House of Representatives and Europe's elected representatives, joined by think tank and media leaders from Europe and the United States in addressing key issues facing citizens and stakeholders on the economic and security fronts.

Our topics and policy issues underscore the overall theme of affirming our common civilization based on the rule of law which protects life, liberty and private property. Jerusalem Leaders Summit panels will address security threats, economic freedom, and Israel's contributions of innovation and technology that benefit citizens around the world. Participants will also discuss trade, investment and economic reforms based on the rule of law.

The participation by members of the European Parliament and/or national parliaments from Belgium, Poland, France, Sweden and U.K. has been confirmed: <http://jerusalemleaderssummit.org/speaker/>
