If he doesn't respond, maybe we could prepare an amended consent stipulation of dismissal with prejudice and ask him to sign it. It doesn't need to be by consent, but it's a way for us to prepare the document instead of waiting on him to do it and try to force his hand.

But, he could have specified otherwise. Can we ask if he's willing to file an amended to specify with prejudice.

This is a dismissal without prejudice. Delbert, Can we reach out to Jim and ask why it wasn't dismissed with prejudice?
