New Legislative Research Service

Information services staff recently provided a training and information session for state legislators and legislative support staff on the use of our new research guide. (Photos)

The legislative research guide was created for state legislators and legislative support staff to access current and accurate statistical information pertaining to South Carolina in a variety of categories: demographic; health; education; workforce and commerce; taxes and revenue; and crime. However, the research guide can be accessed and used by anyone by visiting: statelibrary.sc.gov/legislators.

Center for the Book to Host State Poet Laureate

To celebrate National Poetry Month, the South Carolina State Library's Center for the Book will host a book talk and signing on Friday, April 18, from noon to 1:00 p.m. at 1500 Senate St., Columbia.

Published by USC Press, New and Selected Poems includes more than fifty poems from Marjory Wentworth's previous three collections, Noticing Eden, Despite Gravity, and The Endless Repetition of an Ordinary Miracle, plus twenty-eight new poems. This collection serves as a capstone to Wentworth's tenure as South Carolina poet laureate, a title she has held since 2003.
