OK... I made a few proposed tweaks and tracked changes so they're easy to see.

I can't really get into the specifics, but I can tell you from my past life that the ability to obtain a Secret or higher security clearance is a pretty big deal for this job. It's probably overkill to make it a "preferred" attribute to already have a clearance, but I think that having someone in this job (or frankly in the CIO's job) who is ineligible should be a dealbreaker. Thanks.

Attached is the CISO pd. Please review and provide feedback. I would like to post the position next week.
