A Law Practice Management & Technology Event

About the Conference...

The Law Practice Management & Technology Conference (LPM-TECH), sponsored by the Solo & Small Firm Section of the Bar, is on FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, at the beautiful Columbia Metropolitan Convention Center in the heart of the Capital City.

LPM-TECH is a CLE, conference, and section meeting in one, with a full day of exhibits, educational sessions, networking and prize drawings. A full breakfast and lunch is included with registration. Members of the Solo & Small Firm Section can register at a discount. If you aren't a member yet, you can join now and take advantage of the discount. Contact Emily Worley at eworley@scbar.org for more information.

Meet One of the Speakers: Megan Stifel

You wouldn't dare miss this CLE! Cyber crime is everywhere, but what do you really know about it? That's why you need to come see Megan Stifel!

Former Director for International Cyber Policy, National Security Council and The White House, Ms. Stifel is the founder of Silicon Harbor Consultants, which provides strategic cybersecurity operations and policy counsel. Ms. Stifel frequently lectures on cybersecurity and cyber policy issues, including most recently at the 2016 SC Bar Convention and at the College of Charleston. Prior to working at the White House, Ms. Stifel was detailed as a counsel to the Computer Crime and Intellectual Property Section at DOJ where she investigated identity theft, malware distribution, and other computer crimes and was an associate at Sutherland Asbill and Brennan in the Energy and Homeland Security groups. Before law school, Ms. Stifel worked for three years on Capitol Hill, including two years with the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence. Megan received her J.D. from the Maurer School of Law at Indiana University and her B.A. magna cum laude from the University of Notre Dame.
