This is the article that I was referring to, teachers leaving because people in Columbia like you will not pay them enough to live off of, mfg jobs pay more and less stress, you and your buddies talk about doing something about guns and shooting in schools but all Republicans are scared of the NRA. It blows my mind that some of SC schools do not have RSO because Columbia can not afford them, a lot of BIG talk after Townville, even bigger talk after Florida shooting, but nothing is done and we have another shooting in Texas, how many kids have to die for no reason? Teachers are leaving because they are scared of who will be next!

Anderson County has the penny sales tax that has helped us buy needed security equipment for our schools, but we still have some elementary schools without RSO's, so I can only imagine how bad it is for some of the midland and lower state schools. More must be done to support our teachers and make them and our kids safe!
