Description/Significant Features: Historically was one of two similar side-gable buildings, also likely used for drying/curing tobacco. 1.5-story appearance. A double-wide board-and-batten door is centered on the south elevation; no other fenestration or vents visible.

Alterations (include date(s), if known) The building historically had an open shed that wrapped around all 4 elevations. The long gable sheds on the north and south were added in the 2000s. The second (north) tobacco barn is no longer extant.

Architect(s)/Builder(s): Unknown

Historical Information

Historical Information: Once part of a tobacco farm, the barn is typical of the tobacco-barn form. It may have constituted a component of a locally significant agricultural property, but the removal of associated buildings has resulted in a loss of integrity.
