WELCOME TO SMART CITIES NOW

Updates on smart city progress around the globe

NEWS & TRENDS

Parking meters that pay you: Drivers almost universally hate parking meters, but a new MasterCard program helps ease some of the sting. See how interactive meters can boost local businesses and actually save drivers money. MORE >>

UK's smart city disconnect: A survey in the UK found that 96% of British adults polled are unaware of what their local councils are doing to develop smart cities -- and 48% don't expect smart cities to emerge for another five years. Learn more about what one writer labels "a vicious circle." MORE >>

Smart Cities Week: It's about people

At the end of the day, any smart cities initiative has to be about people, from improving public safety to making it easier to get around. One of four tracks at Smart Cities Week -- Engaging Citizens -- features sessions that drill down on topics that directly touch residents' day-to-day experiences and foster social inclusion among diverse constituencies. POINT OF VIEW

Bailing out water utilities with OMS: Electric utilities should be well aware of the benefits of outage management systems and how they help restore power after outages. While they're a rarity for water utilities, West Monroe Partners makes the case for how well outage management systems can meet many of their needs too. MORE >>

PRODUCTS & SERVICES

App pinpoints at-risk utility infrastructure: The worrisome condition of the electric power industry's aging infrastructure has been well-documented. What to do? Space-Time Insight's Asset Intelligence software helps utilities identify their high-risk assets and what they can do to reduce risk and increase reliability. Get the details. MORE >>
