Dear Ralph and Jeff,

WE both are very supportive of Mitt Romney, however, if you have any way of getting to his "handlers" PLEASE tell Mitt he needs to continue to make the public aware of the fact when he was governor of Massachusetts, he could not do everything he wanted to do when he had to work with an 85% democratic government. Newt is killing him with his "liberal Massachusetts reteric"

Mitt needs to continue to tell that side of the story. We had lunch today with John and Sandee Wilkerson, they feel the same way. Keep hammering away on Obama but also get his side of the Massachusetts "liberal" story told.

Thanks,
June and Bill MacIndoe

Maybe Gov. Haley can get this message to him.

Hi Jeff,

This is awesome news! Please congratulate the governor! She continues to work hard for South Carolina and continues to win me over! If she has any influence with Mitt Romney - please let him know that we need to REMEMBER what he says in these debates. He needs some good talking points/sound bites that will resonate with the voters! Nikki did a great job with this when she was running for governor.

Thanks,
Wendy

Hey,

I just wanted to take a minute to let you know that our unemployment rate fell to 9.5 percent in December 2011, a 0.4 percentage point drop from November's 9.9 percent rate. This marks the fourth consecutive monthly rate drop and is the lowest rate since December 2008..

With hard work we are continuing to make progress. Will you let your facebook friends and email contacts know about this great news?

Talk to you soon.

Statement from Gov. Nikki Haley on drop in unemployment rate

Haley: "We won't stop until everyone in South Carolina who wants a job has a job."

COLUMBIA, S.C. – Governor Nikki Haley today released the following statement regarding South Carolina's unemployment figures released by the Department of Employment and Workforce (DEW):

"We are working every day to bring jobs to South Carolina, and today's news of another drop in the unemployment rate is welcome. But we still have much work to do. We won't stop until everyone in South Carolina who wants a job has a job."

According to DEW, the state's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate fell to 9.5 percent in December 2011, a 0.4 percentage point drop from November's 9.9 percent rate. This marks the fourth consecutive monthly rate drop and is the lowest rate since December 2008.

Note the smart successful folks in SC voted for Mitt Romney! Have you guys read President Obama's autobiographies and his wife's autobiography or biographies of Obama's mother? Judging from his background, there's no way that Obama could possibly represent the average American! I feel sorry for the poor pathetic man, but poor pathetic men should not be running the USA! Obama's wife will tell you in her own words that Obama ignores his family (He ignores my family too!) and he can not handle his money! He can not handle mine either! His wife had to be the bread winner and the responsible parent. We need a stable, dignified, smart, responsible person to represent the USA, that leaves out Newt and Obama. Romney is the only person running for president who looks, acts, and thinks like a CEO and can attract industry and jobs back to the US. If the US wants to be a welfare state, vote for Obama. If the US wants to be successful, vote for the Romney team!

It almost appears to me as if the Republican Congress and the Republican Presidential Candidates are trying to GIVE the 2012 Presidential Election to Barack
Hussein Obama. I have to wonder just how long it will take before the elected Republican Congressmen and Senators realize that they can believe NOTHING said by their Democrat/Progressive/Socialist counterparts.

For 45 years I worked as a Police Officer or Deputy Sheriff at various ranks. Most of that time was spent in one area of Criminal Investigation or another. I have worked many, many cases of fraud in which con men/women of various races and ages attempted or succeeded in obtaining money by fraudulent means. In most areas they were called Pigeon Droppers. The criminals would use various stories in an attempt to get the victim to withdraw a large sum of money from their bank account. The criminals usually operated in teams of two or more people with various stories and schemes to get the victim to make this cash withdrawal. Then they would get the money in some type of envelope switch or by some other method, with the victim almost always thinking that he or she stood to make a quick profit by their actions.

The victim was usually left in a parking lot with an envelope filled with worthless pieces of paper cut up and packaged like U.S. Currency, or they were left in a bank parking lot or bank lobby with nothing but a stupid look on their faces. Then they decide to call the police and when they realize they have been had through their own naive behavior which is normally accompanied by a bit of greed on their own part, they want the police department to immediately find the criminal or criminals and get their money back or they want the bank to take the loss.

Just look what has been going on for the past few weeks regarding the bill which was passed by the Senate and then sent to the House while the Senate Pigeon Droppers went home for the Holidays. Then the House realized that part of the bill was unacceptable and decided not to pass the bill and instead want to "work with" Senators on a joint committee to "hash out all the differences". Have we elected Republican Representatives who are so weak that they cannot see through the games run at them by the President and the Senate? Then of course when the Republican controlled House wants to make changes in the bill, the Head Pigeon Dropper, Barack Hussein Obama has a free run, with the support of a media with bias of Biblical proportions, to make it sound like the Republicans are nothing but a bunch of "Obstructionists".

How many times will the elected Republicans have to be left in the parking lot with an envelope full of worthless paper before they catch on that the Democrats/Progressives/Socialists CANNOT BE TRUSTED FOR ONE MOMENT.

If our present group of elected officials is any example of the common sense possessed by Congressmen, Senators, Professional Politicians in general then it is time for wholesale replacement. Even the Democrats/Progressives/Socialists are too stupid to realize when they are being used by the Chicago political machine.

Also the Republican Presidential Candidates, for the most part, are too busy whining and positioning themselves to do good in the Iowa Caucus to realize that they are looking like a bunch of idiots who are incapable of running a Dairy Queen, much less the United States. I am getting a belly full of all their asses.

Many of the polls are picking Ron Paul to win the Iowa Caucus. Now I agree with Ron Paul's view that the federal government is way too involved in our every day lives but I believe my youngest Grandson, who is completely engrossed in Colorado youth hockey, has a better grip on foreign policy than does Ron Paul. Let's get serious; Pull all our troops out of South Korea? Especially with the death of Jong Il Kim.. yes, that's right, KIM IS HIS LAST NAME, and the prospect of North Korea doing something incredibly stupid in a possible power struggle? And forget about Iran obtaining nuclear weapons? As I have said in the past, in the long haul, Ron Paul is goofy.

But it appears to me as if the Republican Party with the assistance of John Boehner (whom I have always said is a weak House Speaker) is getting ready to make a gift of a second term as President to Barack Hussein Obama..... I hope I am wrong.

QUOTES:

"This is not just another election and Barack Obama is not just another president whose policies we may not like. With all of President Obama's broken promises, glib demagoguery and cynical political moves, one promise he has kept all too well. That was his boast on the eve of the 2008 election: We are going to change the United States of America.... Many Americans are already saying that they can hardly recognize the country they grew up in. We may have already started down the path that has led Western European nations to the brink of financial disaster."..... THOMAS SOWELL

"Internationally, it is worse. A president who has pulled the rug out from under our allies, whether in Eastern Europe or the Middle East, tried to cozy up to our enemies, and has bowed low from the waist to foreign leaders certainly has not represented either the values or the interests of America."..... THOMAS SOWELL

"Can you name one important positive thing that Romney accomplished as governor of Massachusetts? Can anyone? Does a candidate who represents the bland leading the bland increase the chances of victory in November 2012? A lot of candidates like that have lost, from Thomas E. Dewey to John McCain."..... THOMAS SOWELL

"Is life so dear or peace so sweet as to be purchased at the price of the chains of slavery? Forbid it, Almighty God. I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty or give me death."..... PATRICK HENRY

MORE STUFF:

We must all work very hard in 2012 to try and get our wonderful country turned around and headed back in the right direction....I can only hope that the young people of our country wake up and see the terrible direction in which we are headed. There are many things which we need to get turned around and we must dedicate ourselves to that task.

My God bless you all.

All three of these folks have made it because they are fortunate enough to live in AMERICA THE BEAUTIFUL and are FREE to shape their own destiny! I can not even imagine what these 3 people have endured to be successful in their chosen fields! All three are coming from different backgrounds but yet all three were able to make it in what is still the land of opportunity, the UNITED States of America! As a state representative four years ago, I supported Mitt Romney for president. What I've learned since becoming governor has led me to once again support him for president this year.

I did not make this decision lightly. In the end, the things I cared about most were a focus on jobs and the economy, having the executive experience to deliver results to the American people, and finding someone that has never been a part of the destructive chaos that is Washington, D.C. Using those criteria, I have no doubt that Mitt Romney is the best choice.

The central issue facing South Carolina is our economy. Under President Obama's failed leadership, America has seen its credit rating downgraded, unemployment rise to new heights, and our national debt has shattered all records. We are heading in the same horrible direction as the dismal economies and bankrupt governments of Europe. In order to save our country from this catastrophe, we need to change directions fast.

Any Republican president would try to do that. But Mitt Romney knows how to turn things around – he's done it before. He knows what it means to make decisions - real decisions – and not simply cast a vote. He is not a creature of Washington. And he knows how the private economy works, and how to fix it.

As governor, I've also seen how Washington's policies have an enormous impact on South Carolina. From the unfunded expansion of Medicaid, to challenging our immigration law, to the outrageous attempt to intimidate Boeing from creating jobs in our state, the degree to which Washington is wreaking havoc on our budget and economy is something I did not fully appreciate before I became governor. I'm not sure anyone can appreciate it without sitting in this office. As a former governor, Mitt

Romney has had the same experience. He knows the challenges that face our states, and understands what it will take to get the burdens off our backs.

I do not agree with Governor Romney 100% of the time, nor do I support every position he has ever taken. I don't agree with any of the candidates on everything. I don't need to. When I look at what he has accomplished – substantially cutting taxes and eliminating deficits in a heavily Democratic state, turning around the Olympics, building successful businesses and repairing troubled ones – I see someone who has the courage, experience, and knowledge to turn our economy around and get Americans back to work.

And there's one more thing. None of the conservative agenda will be advanced if we do not defeat President Obama next year. The single biggest economic and budgetary threat to South Carolina in the years ahead is implementation of Obamacare. Governor Romney is fully committed to repealing Obamacare, and he has told me directly that he will grant South Carolina a waiver to get out from under it on his first day in office. He has also committed to finding a resolution to the Yucca Mountain disaster, including fighting alongside me to prevent the federal government from simply pocketing the money South Carolinians have already paid.

I am convinced that Romney stands the best chance of defeating Obama. The person who convinced me of that was President Obama himself. The Democratic National Committee and the president's campaign attack Romney on a daily basis. They don't touch any of the other candidates. That ought to tell us loudly and clearly who they fear most.

I know some of my conservative friends and allies have a different view of the candidates. I respect their choices. From where I sit, working every day to bring jobs to South Carolina and keep our budget balanced, Mitt Romney is the best choice. He has the right agenda to get our country back on track, to get our economy moving again, and to deliver us results - and he has the experience and integrity we can count on.

Jeff:

I do not have a good contact number for Mitt Romney's campaign and several people would like to have him visit one or more of our groups:

The Dawnbusters, Lamplighters, Capitalists, etc.

Can you get me a contact?

I realize that the Governor is not interested in visiting these groups (which I'm over) but Romney needs all the support from Republicans that he can muster.

Just an suggestion/offer.

Thanks,

Craig Adams

Our voting machines are prepared and ready to deploy; poll clerks, managers and volunteers have been identified; training for volunteers is set; and absentee process is up and running....if you so desire you may come in at any time and vote in-person at our office Mon – Friday 8:30 – 4:45 each day except holiday.
In short, we are ready.

My biggest concern/fear is ice/sleet/snow storm during the night which could impact not only voters getting to the polls, but also our clerks/managers getting there not to mention delays in getting into the polling locations because their designated person to open/close facility cannot get there.

There is no provision in the law that would allow us to delay/postpone/reschedule our county's participation in such an event. Our staff can get to this office and open as a central voting location, but the outlying polls could present some issues.

May I ask each of you to give this some thought within the GOP party to formulate a response thru the Governor's office for just such an event; recognizing it would probably not affect all the counties of our State?

Thanks for all you do, and hope your new session is productive.

Good morning, Rob,

One of our readers asked what it cost for Nikki to travel around the state in support of Romney's campaign and how much of it the taxpayers covered. Was state aircraft used?

Nikki has been clear on her feelings about transparency but if you need this to be an FOIA request, consider it so.

Mr. Godfrey,

Thanks for taking my call earlier. I'm a magazine writer in New York. I cover American and international politics for numerous European and American publications, including Elsevier, the pre-eminent news magazine in the Netherlands. I plan to be in South-Carolina for a feature story looking ahead to the primary.

I would be interested in meeting with yourself, and possibly Governor Haley. European readers are interested in the upcoming elections, of course. The Republican race is of particular interest, and Governor Haley's support of Mitt Romney would make her a great source for my story.

I'll be in Columbia on Thursday Dec 29, and could meet any time that day.

About Elsevier magazine: we are the sole not-liberal publication in Holland. Instead, we take an independent view. Our commentaries tend to lean conservative. About me: I have been an American correspondent since 2001. My stories have included interviews with Congressman Pete Hoekstra, William Kristol, Michael Bloomberg, many Tea Party activists and conservative voters, a cover story about Sarah Palin's Alaska, a feature about the pro-life movement in Kansas, profiles of Bobby Jindal and Paul Ryan, among others.

Thank you for your time.

Kind regards,
Diederik

Dear Rob

As I mentioned in my voicemail message, I'd love to talk to Gov. Haley for the back page of Bloomberg Businessweek. This is one of our most popular columns, in which newsmakers reflect on the thinking behind choices they've made. We reach an audience of five million business readers, and the piece is written in the first person. My goal was to chat with her about her endorsement of Mitt Romney or another subject of her choice.

I'd love to feature her in our first issue of the year, which would mean finding 20 minutes on her schedule this week. Participants range from Newark mayor Cory Booker to Areva's Anne Lauvergeon.

Here are some links that may be helpful:

Thank you for considering this. I hope we can make it work. A few quick things to mention about Bloomberg Businessweek: Reuters recently named us the best magazine in America -- <http://blogs.reuters.com/jackshafer/> -- and Adweek also named us to its 2011 hot list (<http://bit.ly/vMJtvc>). It's a great forum and I think she'd be pleased with the results.
Best, Diane

Subject: NIKKI HALEY for launch day at CBS This Morning

Hi Rob,

Thanks so much for chatting just now. I've also sent this information over to Tim, but wanted to get you these details as well...

As I said, over at CBS news we're launching a brand new show called CBS This Morning with Charlie Rose, Gayle King and Erica Hill.

After Nikki's big endorsement of Mitt Romney, I'm sure you've been inundated with requests by the different networks to have her on. And, clearly, we're no exception!

Charlie Rose specifically asked that I check Nikki's availability for launch day to talk Iowa.

Charlie is looking to build a show that gives guests considerably more air time to than the other morning shows to share their views and speak to the issues. He wants each interview to be like a "conversation over dinner." We are not a show that will place time restrictions on interesting and important information that our viewers need to hear.

If Nikki is available to join us on the 9th, she will be part of one of the biggest new show launches ever. It's an extremely exciting new venture and we've been aggressively promoting it, which should bring in great numbers.

Aside from being seen by our TV viewers, we also working to live stream our entire show on our website, an unprecedented feature for morning shows. As you can imagine, this furthers our reach and gives Nikki an even better opportunity to speak to her constituents.

We are so excited about the opportunity to bring Nikki on for the launch and hope we can work something out. We of course would be happy to fly her to New York to join us live in our new studio, or we will work with you to figure out what is best.

You can reach me anytime on my cell, [REDACTED], to discuss.

Thank you for your time, talk to you soon --
Katy Conrad

Hi Rob,

Thank you for this information. I'm hoping to make it down to Myrtle Beach on Friday and I'm wondering if you know when Nikki Haley's event with Mitt Romney will take place. Even just a ballpark time would help me figure out how we'll need to schedule that coverage.

Also, do media need to register to attend?

Rob,

I'm writing a story about Gov. Haley traveling with Mitt Romney for three days this week. I'm interested in getting a comment from you about why the governor decided to invest that amount of time campaigning with Gov. Romney. Can you tell me why she chose to tag along? Particularly if Romney is the nominee and defeats Obama, how does this investment in time stand to help South Carolina?

I'd like to write something by 4 p.m. Can you give me a comment -- either by phone or email?

Hi Rob,

Thanks so much for chatting just now. I've also sent this information over to Tim, but wanted to get you these details as well...

As I said, over at CBS news we're launching a brand new show called CBS This Morning with Charlie Rose, Gayle King and Erica Hill.

After Nikki's big endorsement of Mitt Romney, I'm sure you've been inundated with requests by the different networks to have her on. And, clearly, we're no exception!

Charlie is looking to build a show that gives guests considerably more air time to than the other morning shows to share their views and speak to the issues. He wants each interview to be like a "conversation over dinner." We are not a show that will place time restrictions on interesting and important information that our viewers need to hear.

We are so excited about the opportunity to bring Nikki on for the launch and hope we can work something out. We of course would be happy to fly her to New York to join us live in our new studio, or we will work with you to figure out what is best.

You can reach me anytime on my cell, 646.479.1086, to discuss.

Thank you for your time, talk to you soon --

Dear Rob

As I mentioned in my voicemail message, I'd love to talk to Gov. Haley for the back page of Bloomberg Businessweek. This is one of our most popular columns, in which newsmakers reflect on the thinking behind choices they've made. We reach an audience of five million business readers, and the piece is written in the first person. My goal was to chat with her about her endorsement of Mitt Romney or another subject of her choice.

I'd love to feature her in our first issue of the year, which would mean finding 20 minutes on her schedule this week. Participants range from Newark mayor Cory Booker to Areva's Anne Lauvergeon.

Thank you for considering this. I hope we can make it work. A few quick things to mention about Bloomberg Businessweek: Reuters recently named us the best magazine in America -- <http://blogs.reuters.com/jackshafer/> -- and Adweek also named us to its 2011 hot list (<http://bit.ly/vMJtvc>). It's a great forum and I think she'd be pleased with the results.

Good evening Rob,

I'd like to request an interview with Governor Haley tomorrow morning while she is in Conway, campaigning with Mitt Romney and Sen. McCain.

The topic I'm covering this week is Women in Politics and I think it would be great to hear from the governor about her experience getting to the top job in South Carolina.

I'll be at the event in the morning & look forward to meeting you both. If you need to reach me, you can use this email or my cell phone [REDACTED]

We are now just days away from the GOP Presidential Preference Primary.

Our voting machines are prepared and ready to deploy; poll clerks, managers and volunteers have been identified; training for volunteers is set; and absentee process is up and running....if you so desire you may come in at any time and vote in-person at our office Mon – Friday 8;30 – 4:45 each day except holiday.
In short, we are ready.

My biggest concern/fear is ice/sleet/snow storm during the night which could impact not only voters getting to the polls, but also our clerks/managers getting there not to mention delays in getting into the polling locations because their designated person to open/close facility cannot get there.

There is no provision in the law that would allow us to delay/postpone/reschedule our county's participation in such an event. Our staff can get to this office and open as a central voting location, but the outlying polls could present some issues.

May I ask each of you to give this some thought within the GOP party to formulate a response thru the Governor's office for just such an event; recognizing it would probably not affect all the counties of our State?

Thanks for all you do, and hope your new session is productive.

Dear Katherine,

I'm not from SC, so I have no say, but please tell Haley that by backing Romney, she's backing a guy who got elected in Massachusetts. I lived there awhile and they have some nice folks, but I KNOW they won't elect anybody if he's not a communist or close.

Most of the GOP field is unimpressive, but to choose a socialist who will change whimsically direction to win is very sad.

To now, I've been really impressed with Haley. Now all that has been destroyed.

Hey Rob,

I wanted to reach out & see if the Governor would be available to join Neil Cavuto for one of his three FOX Primary Special Coverage specials this Tuesday (Jan. 31).

He will be hosting his normal programs at 4pm ET on FOX News & 6pm ET on FOX Business.

However, he will ALSO be hosting FOX Business' Special FL Primary Coverage from 8pm-11pm ET.

It was my hope that she would be available to join Neil for one of the three programs as we'll be discussing the 2012 Election cycle as well as the numerous issues being discussed on the trail. Jobs, the economy & budget issues will all be up for discussion on Tuesday.

As always, we would be happy to provide a local studio & transportation

Would she be available to join us?

Many thanks,
Dan

Dear Chairman Connelly

As you know, we at Sky News would love to have you join us for a Live Chat with one of our key Sky News Presenters in Charleston this week!

We had the pleasure of interviewing both Rick Santorum and Jon Huntsman Live in Manchester.

We also, had former Minnesota Governor Tim Pawlenty and former MA Lieutenant Governor Kerry Healey join us for a live chat in support of Governor Romney in Manchester last Tuesday!

We have previously interviewed Candidates Michele Bachmann and Herman Cain as well.

We would love to have a strong Republican voice from South Carolina to offer our Worldwide Audience your specific point of view!

We have seen you as well as Gov Nikki Haley on our sister US Network FOX NEWS several times and can guarantee you our Sky News Worldwide Audience of over 90 Million Subscribers and potential visitors to the "Palmetto State" are following this race very closely and would love to hear from you as well as your Governor!

As you know, Sky News is an International News channel that is ranked the leader over its competitors the BBC, ITV, CNN, CNBC, Bloomberg, EuroNews on both a worldwide basis and in the United Kingdom.

Sky News was just named Royal Television Society "News Channel of the Year" for the eight time in ten years over our main competitors the BBC and ITV and was also cited by the RTS judges as - "The place to go for breaking news".

Sky News has over 90 Million subscribers worldwide - each subscription includes multiple viewers.

Our material is regularly seen and heard in the US on CBS and Fox News TV and Radio and is also passed on to many other global affiliates.

Sky News is the news channel of choice for US ex-patriots and business leaders as well as many thousands of Republicans and Democrats Abroad working in London, Paris, Frankfurt, Hong Kong, Tokyo and Singapore.

Sky News is also seen on our US Military bases in Afghanistan and worldwide.

Sky News is also available to US viewers via the award-winning Sky News website with live streaming and videos on demand.

I along with my colleagues have had the pleasure of arranging and producing scores of fine Sky News interviews with so many important individuals including President Barack Obama, President George W Bush and First Lady Laura Bush, Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, Treasury Secretary Timothy Geithner, Department of Homeland Security Secretary Janet Napolitano; Attorney General Eric Holder; Former Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld, Governors Tim Pawlenty, Jon Huntsman, Terry Branstad, Ed Rendell, John Lynch; Senators John Mc Cain, Max Baucus, Ben Cardin, Robert Menendez, Claire Mc Caskill, Judd Greg, Rick Santorum; Reps Michele Bachmann, Carolyn Maloney, James Clyburn, Steve King, John Lewis, Ed Markey, Charlie Bass, Jeff Foutenberry, Jim Gerlach, Joe Pitts, Eliot Engel, Peter King, Dennis Kucinich; Nelson Mandela, Madeline Albright; Dan Rather; Arianna Huffington, Herman Cain; Tony Blair, David Cameron, Dana Perino, Karl Rove, Donald Fowler, Harold Ickes, Victoria Clarke, Stan & Anna Greenberg, New York City Mayor Michael Bloomberg, Mayor Gavin Newsom, Woody Allen, Jane Fonda, George Clooney and Henry Kissinger, just to name a few.

Sky News has a significant international audience, broadcasting to all of Europe, 56 countries in Africa, as well as 15 countries in the Middle East and to 14 countries in Asia.

In addition to our award-winning television channel, we are the sole news provider to over 300 commercial radio stations (31 million+listeners).

Recently our website (www.skynews.com) had 8.1 million unique users and our news service is shown via large screens in train stations, hotels, office complexes and shopping centers across the UK- including London's financial center- "The City" and Canary Wharf.

Let's all follow up and see if we can make this very important world wide interview happen.

I look forward to the possibility of seeing you and Governor Haley in Charleston.

I wanted to check in to see if we knew anything further about whether or not Governor Nikki Haley was available to join us tomorrow morning on the topic of the South Carolina Primary, Newt's beginning to surge and what she's hearing from South Carolina about the race to the nomination.

Anything I can do to help make it more accommodating for her to join us?!

Dear Jeffrey,

My name is Ella Colak and I'm with RTL Dutch Television, we just spoke on the phone. We are based in New York City and produce an Evening News program, called RTL Nieuws, for over a million viewers in Holland. For more information you can go to our website: www.rtlnieuws.nl

We are making a feature on the new voter ID law and would love to talk to Nikki Haley on-camera, so she could tell us more about the importance of implementing the new law in South Carolina. Our correspondent Frederik Mouthaan and our cameraman Dennis Verheyen will be in South Carolina next week (during the primary) on Friday the 20th, Saturday the 21st and Sunday the 22nd. They might be in Sumter and Charleston, but if the governor wants to meet in Columbia they will head to Columbia, that won't be a issue.

It would be a tremendous contribution for our feature if we could talk to the governor. You can reach me at 212 975 6711 during office hours. My cell phone number is [REDACTED]. I hope to hear from you soon. Have a nice evening.

Kindest regards,

Ella Colak

To reiterate our conversation, this week is obviously huge in the Palmetto state and Friday, the day before the monster primary that many feel is the make or break point is going to be an important show for us and I'd like to know if you're making Governor Nikki Haley available for interviews that morning, Jan 20th? She would be interviewed by none other than Charlie Rose our new anchor for five minutes.

We're very interested in having her on and continuing the relationship we built at the town hall. Let me know what we can do to make this work.

Thank you,

Good Afternoon Rob,

This is Steven Page with MSNBC in New York. I am writing to see if the Governor would be available this weekend for a one-on-one interview with Alex Witt on "Weekends with Alex Witt". We would like to talk to the Governor about South Carolina being the first in the south primary of this season.

I can be reached at this e-mail address or at the phone numbers below for additional details. The interview would be live and run about 5 to 7 minutes live.

On Saturday, we are on air from 9am to Noon EST. On Sunday we are on from 10AM to Noon. So anytime that she's available in those slots we'd be happy to speak with her.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,

Ms. Noonan,

Great to hear from you.

This one is fine: "Jobs, spending and the economy. Everyone in South Carolina knows somebody who's out of work. Our unemployment is higher than the national average and I've killed myself trying to bring jobs here. I need a president I can work with -- Obama makes it harder to find and create jobs. I don't want anyone tied to Washington. I have great respect for business people to create jobs and make tough decisions."

On the other quote: Is there anything else she told you that you could use? I, frankly, don't like the way that one sounds.

Happy to chat by phone. Just let me know what number you'd like me to call.

Rob, I had a great talk with the governor the other day -- she was really impressive, and personally delightful -- and I thank you for helping to arrange it. We spoke on background but I told her I might ask to use some quotes. I would like to use these. On the main issues of the South Carolina primary: "Jobs, spending and the economy. Everyone in South Carolina knows somebody who's out of work. Our unemployment is higher than the national average and I've killed myself trying to bring jobs here. I need a president I can work with -- Obama makes it harder to find and create jobs. I don't want anyone tied to Washington. I have great respect for business people to create jobs and make tough decisions." On the impact of her endorsement: "Me endorsing him let certain people know it's okay." Thanks a lot, and please get back to me when you can. Let me know if I can be of help to you, and you should all tell me when you're coming to NYC. Best, Peggy Noonan

Good morning Mr. Godfrey.

We would like to interview the Governor on "America's News Headquarters", here on Fox News.

The show airs Saturday from Noon until 1:00 and Sunday from Noon until 2:00. I understand weekends are difficult, but if you would please check the Governor's availability; perhaps she is willing to amend her schedule in light of the South Carolina primary. We are open to whatever time/day that is convenient.

Also, if she is not willing to go on live, we propose doing a pre-tape Friday. Will you please see if she is willing?

Thank you for your time and assistance.

Haley to join Larry on the program. We can send a satellite truck and camera crew to y'all's location or arrange for a local TV studio. While we prefer live interviews, during the 7pm hour, we could also tape any time after 5:30! I hope you are well and I hope we can make something work out!

Memorandum

To: Interested Parties
From: Jon Lerner
Date: December 18, 2012

Re: Winthrop University Poll in South Carolina

Several media outlets have reported on a recent South Carolina public opinion survey that was conducted by Winthrop University between the dates of November 27 and December 4, 2011. Governor Haley was asked about the survey today in her appearance on Meet the Press. Because of the considerable interest in the results, it is worth noting a rather dramatic flaw in this survey that significantly impacts its findings.

Reporting has focused on Governor Haley's job approval numbers. Because very few surveys have been done on that subject in recent months, there is no good way to compare the findings in this survey with those of others to test its accuracy. However, that is not the case with President Obama's job approval numbers, because the president is tested in numerous surveys on a virtually daily basis. Therefore, to judge the accuracy of the recent Winthrop poll, it is instructive to compare its findings about Obama to the findings of other polling that was conducted in the same time period.

The Winthrop poll found President Obama with a 47.8% job approval rating and a 44.8% disapproval rating in South Carolina. That is a net total of +3 points. During the same time period, the Gallup national survey showed Obama averaging 42.7% job approval and 49.7% disapproval nationwide. That's a net total of -7 points. During the same time period, the Real Clear Politics average of all credible national polls showed President Obama with an average job approval rating of 43.3% and disapproval of 51.0%. That's a net total of -7.7 points.

Therefore, the Winthrop poll has President Obama doing nearly 11 points better in South Carolina than he is doing in the country as a whole. To believe that, you would have to believe that Obama is massively more popular in South Carolina than he is the rest of the country, and that in fact, South Carolina is one Obama's better states in the entire country. Rather than believing that implausible theory, a better explanation lies in the composition of those who were included in the Winthrop poll.

Of those surveyed by Winthrop, 33.7% said they were Democrats, 30.1% said they were Republicans, and 36.2% called themselves Independents. That's a +3.6 point Democratic advantage. Having conducted considerable statewide polling in South Carolina elections going back to 2002, I have consistently found a durable 10 point Republican party affiliation advantage over the last decade. In a very Republican state like South Carolina, I have never seen a 3.6 point Democratic party affiliation advantage in an accurate poll.

A party ID error of approximately 14 points would easily explain an erroneous finding that President Obama is 11 points more popular in South Carolina than he is nationwide. In fact, you would have to take 11 points from Obama's numbers in the Winthrop poll just to place Obama even with his national job approval numbers. In reality, it is likely that Obama is at least somewhat, if not substantially more unpopular in South Carolina than he is nationally. The Winthrop poll, therefore is likely somewhat more than 11 points on its Obama findings. Just how much more is speculative.

The Winthrop survey contained far too many Democrats and far too few Republicans for an accurate South Carolina statewide survey. Such an error would heavily affect the job approval ratings of both President Obama and Governor Haley, but of course, the affect would be in opposite directions. Just as the party affiliation poll likely overstated the Obama job approval by at least 11 points, it likely understated the Haley job approval numbers by at least 11 points.

This is not a broad condemnation of Winthrop's polling. It is a critique of this individual poll. Any poll that does not peg a specific number of Republicans and Democrats in its sample acquires a random risk that the sample will contain an inaccurate partisan weighting. That is what happened here to a rather dramatic 14 point degree.

Hi Rob!

Sorry to bother you with another email. My boss is a huge fan of Governor Haley and asked me to reach out again today to request an interview with Governor Haley on Soledad O'Brien's national morning show, "Starting Point".

Soledad is all about powerful women leaders and loves the fact we can talk to Gov. Haley about Governor Romney and then push ahead to South Carolina's primary and CNN's debate there.

We can work around scheduling needs!

Hi Robert!

I hope this email finds you well. Romney folks tell me Gov. Haley will be campaigning for him in NH soon. GREAT news and perfect timing. I had JUST told my boss and also Erick Erickson (who is here with us in Iowa for our coverage) that I would love to get Gov. Haley on ahead of the SC primary. Then my boss said she wanted to do something when we are in NH, Thursday-Wednesday, on the SC primary. So we thought it would be PERFECT if Gov. Haley could join us on set at our diner while she is in NH (Chez Vouchon).

OR if timing doesn't work we can do it from SC. The show is LIVE from 7-9am ET.

Fingers crossed we can do something.

Thanks so much!

Hi, Rob,

C-SPAN is eager to see if Governor Haley can be our guest on "Newsmakers" this week – Friday (Jan. 6) or Sunday (Jan. 8). An UPLINK is fine. If this week just cannot work, we'd be interested in next week. We'd like to talk about the coming SC primary, issues South Carolina is facing, what she sees as the states' spending issues vs the federal government, what she thinks are the key issues in 2012.

We'd tape the 25-minute interview on Friday or do it LIVE on Sunday morning. On Newsmakers, he'd talk with a C-SPAN host and with two reporters who follow these issues. (There are no viewer calls on Newsmakers.) Susan Swain, C-SPAN's co-president, hosts the program whenever possible. "Newsmakers" airs Sunday at 10a.m. & again at 6p.m

Could Governor Haley do this 25-minute Newsmakers interview on one of these days/times, either here in DC or by UPLINK:

FRIDAY, Jan. 6: any 25 minutes between 10:30a.m. & 3:30p.m. ET.

SUNDAY, Jan. 8: at 10a.m. ET LIVE – just this one time on Sunday. It airs at 10a & 6p.

If these times don't quite work, but another might, please let us know because we may be able to accommodate.

And if THIS WEEK doesn't work... we'd like to invite her for next Friday or Sunday (Jan. 13 or 15).

Let us know if she's available.

Thanks,

Hey Rob,

Happy Tuesday! I might get to cover the primary for my station. Trying to see if we can get a quick interview with the Governor on her endorsement and what she wants Florida voters to know about Romney.

Wouldn't be bad sending me home to cover this story, huh? Ha!

Have a good one,

Dear Rob,

Hope this note finds you well. I'm writing from Reuters in Washington, where I'm covering the presidential campaign. Do you have a moment today to talk? I was hoping we might speak about the governor's promise to endorse a candidate and perhaps what she's thinking about to make that determination.

Thanks in advance. Please let me know if there's a good way to reach you.

Hey Rob: Again, sorry I'm bugging you.. but just wanted to follow up before I head down there tmrw. I'll be in Columbia most of the day tmrw and in the state through Sunday. If there's any chance at all of grabbing Gov. Haley for a few minutes, please let me know! I'm working on a few stories down there, including the SC primary item I mentioned previously. But it would also be great to do a standalone piece on Haley's views on 2012, and Yahoo would give it huge play on on front and news pages, which would generate a lot of traffic.

Thanks again! Sorry to keep clogging you your email with my begging! :) holly

Dear Rob Godfrey,

I am a feature writer on the politics team at the Washington Post and I am doing a story on the South Carolina primary and how the candidates have been coming to see the governor. I have read about candidates and their spouses visiting the Governor's residence and getting to know her, and my editors and I thought these visits might be a useful way to bring readers into "the story so far" of the primary. It obviously comes after the votes in NH and Iowa but it'll play such a pivotal role and I know the visits will help readers understand a lot about the candidates and also how Governor Haley thinks through an eventual endorsement.

I can be reached at 202 334 4345, and I'd be happy to discuss further. I'll be in South Carolina from next Tuesday thru Sunday, including the Spartanburg debate. I imagine she'll play some role that night, whether introducing or welcoming the audience and candidates.

At any rate, I hope you see this as a welcome opportunity and I look forward to talking soon.

Sincerely,
Ned Martel

I had emailed you a few weeks ago about an interview with the governor. In the meantime, I'm now working on a story about Gov. Romney and some of his endorsements — past endorsements, as well as those he's going to roll out. I'm curious if you can give me any sense of if Gov. Haley is even planning to endorse in the primary. On background is fine. Thanks!

World Service News and Current Affairs

Dear Rob,

I'm contacting you from BBC Global News in London as I would like to invite Governor Haley to speak to BBC World Service Radio's flagship news and current affairs programme, Newshour.

One of the big news stories that we will be covering this weekend is the result of the South Carolina Primary and we would love Governor Haley to join us -- even if it was for just 3 minutes on the phone -- and give us her reaction to the result.

Our key broadcast times are anytime between:

* Saturday -- 21.00 - midnight

* Sunday -- 07.00 - 08.00

The BBC World Service is the BBC's international radio station. It is broadcast to every country in the world in 32 languages and has a listenership of 43 million to its English language network each week. It has very large audiences in parts of Africa and Asia and one of its largest growing audiences is in the United States where programmes are taken on 200 NPR stations reaching more than 10 million listeners.

Let me know if there is anything else you would like to know at this stage.

With very best wishes

Sara

Hey Rob,

Thank you for your reply. It's a shame but we understand the governor has a busy schedule. Instead, does she have a spokesperson that we could talk to on-camera about the new voter-ID law this weekend? In either Charleston or Columbia, wherever it suits him or her best.

I hope to hear from you soon.

Kindest regards,

Gina –

Thanks for the email. It's always good to hear from y'all. The governor very much enjoyed the town hall last year, too. I'll check on her availability for Friday.

Please understand that if we can't work anything out that it's not personal. This week is very hectic when it comes to the schedule – with our legislature in session and the governor delivering her annual State of the State address.

Thanks again for reaching out.

Rob,

To reiterate our conversation, this week is obviously huge in the Palmetto state and Friday, the day before the monster primary that many feel is the make or break point is going to be an important show for us and I'd like to know if you're making Governor Nikki Haley available for interviews that morning, Jan 20th? She would be interviewed by none other than Charlie Rose our new anchor for five minutes.

We're very interested in having her on and continuing the relationship we built at the town hall. Let me know what we can do to make this work.

Thank you,

Good morning Rob,

I wanted to reach out & see if the Governor would be available to join Neil Cavuto for one of his two FOX Primary Special Coverage specials this Saturday (Jan. 21).

His morning program will be from 10am-12pm ET on FOX News.

His evening program will be from 7pm-10pm ET on FOX Business.

It was my hope that the Governor would be available to join Neil for one of the two programs as we'll be discussing the 2012 Election cycle as well as the numerous issues being discussed on the trail. Jobs, the economy & budget issues will all be up for discussion on Saturday – all issues incredibly important to the state of South Carolina.

As always, we would be happy to provide a local studio & transportation

Would she be available to join us?

Many thanks,
Dan

I wanted to see if you have a minute to chat on background for a story I'm working on. I cover Mitt Romney for the Times, and going back and looking at some of his actions over the past few years, Gov. Romney has really been trying to woo Gov. Haley. He clearly sees her as a valuable member of the party, and someone he'd love to have on his side. I just saw her recent comments about how she's not yet ready to endorse, which makes sense. But I'd really just like to talk to you more—on background—about how coveted Gov. Haley's endorsement is, etc. I'm at (212) 556 5975. Thanks!

South Carolina Gov. Nikki Haley, one of the most sought-after remaining Republican endorsements, will come out for Mitt Romney Friday morning, POLITICO has learned.

Haley will offer her formal endorsement on Fox and Friends, giving Romney an important boost ahead of South Carolina's primary next month.

Romney is heading to South Carolina this weekend, where he's likely to be joined by Haley at town hall meetings on the coast.

Haley, a tea party favorite who upended South Carolina's GOP establishment by winning last year, has been courted by all of the GOP presidential contenders. As a state representative, she backed Romney in 2008.

Op-ed

As a state representative four years ago, I supported Mitt Romney for president. What I've learned since becoming governor has led me to once again support him for president this year.

I did not make this decision lightly. In the end, the things I cared about most were a focus on jobs and the economy, having the executive experience to deliver results to the American people, and finding someone that has never been a part of the destructive chaos that is Washington, D.C. Using those criteria, I have no doubt that Mitt Romney is the best choice.

The central issue facing South Carolina is our economy. Under President Obama's failed leadership, America has seen its credit rating downgraded, unemployment rise to new heights, and our national debt has shattered all records. We are heading in the same horrible direction as the dismal economies and bankrupt governments of Europe. In order to save our country from this catastrophe, we need to change directions fast.

Any Republican president would try to do that. But Mitt Romney knows how to turn things around – he's done it before. He knows what it means to make decisions - real decisions – and not simply cast a vote. He is not a creature of Washington. And he knows how the private economy works, and how to fix it.

As governor, I've also seen how Washington's policies have an enormous impact on South Carolina. From the unfunded expansion of Medicaid, to challenging our immigration law, to the outrageous attempt to intimidate Boeing from creating jobs in our state, the degree to which Washington is wreaking havoc on our budget and economy is something I did not fully appreciate before I became governor. I'm not sure anyone can appreciate it without sitting in this office. As a former governor, Mitt Romney has had the same experience. He knows the challenges that face our states, and understands what it will take to get the burdens off our backs.

I do not agree with Governor Romney 100% of the time, nor do I support every position he has ever taken. I don't agree with any of the candidates on everything. I don't need to. When I look at what he has accomplished – substantially cutting taxes and eliminating deficits in a heavily Democratic state, turning around the Olympics, building successful businesses and repairing troubled ones – I see someone who has the courage, experience, and knowledge to turn our economy around and get Americans back to work.

And there's one more thing. None of the conservative agenda will be advanced if we do not defeat President Obama next year. The single biggest economic and budgetary threat to South Carolina in the years ahead is implementation of Obamacare. Governor Romney is fully committed to repealing Obamacare, and he has told me directly that he will grant South Carolina a waiver to get out from under it on his first day in office. He has also committed to finding a resolution to the Yucca Mountain disaster, including fighting alongside me to prevent the federal government from simply pocketing the money South Carolinians have already paid.

I am convinced that Romney stands the best chance of defeating Obama. The person who convinced me of that was President Obama himself. The Democratic National Committee and the president's campaign attack Romney on a daily basis. They don't touch any of the other candidates. That ought to tell us loudly and clearly who they fear most.

I know some of my conservative friends and allies have a different view of the candidates. I respect their choices. From where I sit, working every day to bring jobs to South Carolina and keep our budget balanced, Mitt Romney is the best choice. He has the right agenda to get our country back on track, to get our economy moving again, and to deliver us results - and he has the experience and integrity we can count on.

Subject: RE: Gov. Nikki Haley: "We're South Carolinians. We will win every time." - Endorsement

Rob,

I would be remiss if I failed to let the governor know that I am EXTREMELY disappointed in her endorsement of Mitt Romney.

As much as I love having Nikki for our governor, this move seems contradictory to the principles of freedom and limited government. I am no longer able to simply "hold my nose and vote" for whoever the establishment wants to give me. We should, as conservatives support the candidate most aligned with our philosophy at this stage (without consideration of ELECTABILITY) If Romney is our candidate, the election will be similar to when McCain was our candidate.

My respect for Nikki Haley is not diminished....she is an accomplished woman who knows how to govern, but this endorsement makes it more difficult and far less likely that we will have a REAL choice in the general election. We need boldness and courage in our challenger to Barack Obama...those traits are not genuine in Mr. Romney.

Below is an email I sent out right before the recent debate, I think it clearly expressed my sentiment AND the essence of the Tea Party.

*****

Shall we fast-track the destruction of America (keep Barack) or do it gradually (Gingrich or Romney)?

That is the unspoken question being posed by the media...it is a false dichotomy we are being offered; we MUST not bite.

Dear Friends,

I am speaking out now because failing to do so would make me part of the problem. I don't care to debate via email if you disagree....please just hear me out. There are some in the GOP presidential field who are not conservatives and they are not suitable for this republic.

First let me say this:

Any of the GOP candidates would be 100 times better than our current administration, but we cannot simply settle for a hollow victory. I call it hollow because even if people have an "R" behind their name, it doesn't mean they subscribe to our beliefs. With some of the candidates we will merely be selecting, "BIG GOVERNMENT LITE" and that will accomplish nothing towards freedom.

One of the following must be our candidate:

Michele Bachmann
Rick Santorum

Ron Paul

I have put them in the order that I would select them....but I urge you to consider your vote carefully.

If we are to preserve the republic, we must return power to the people and undo this monstrosity of federal over-reach.

Neither Newt Gingrich or Mitt Romney or Rick Perry will work diligently towards that goal. We cannot withstand another GWB or John McCain type.

Please select a candidate and then work for them with the following in mind:

Is it your goal to simply win the White House from Barack Obama? Almost any of our candidates can do that....

OR

Is it your goal to save America from the fate that awaits us in going down the path to SOCIALISM? Only a few of our candidates will do that!!!

One of the following must be our candidate:

Michele Bachmann

Rick Santorum

Ron Paul

Please do not support Romney, Gingrich or Perry.

May God bless America, the land of the free and home of the brave!

IN CASE YOU MISSED IT

Post and Courier (Guest Column): South Carolina should not fear port competition
BY NIKKI HALEY
Sunday, December 11, 2011
<http://www.postandcourier.com/news/2011/dec/11/11haley/>

Last week, the South Carolina Senate undertook the clearly political exercise unprecedented in South Carolina history of subpoenaing my staff to ask them questions about my office's involvement in DHEC's granting of a permit for the dredging of the Savannah port. They concluded, unequivocally, what we had said all along: Neither I nor anyone who works for me played a role in this decision one way or another.

Now that this purely political inquiry, initiated by none other than my gubernatorial opponent Vincent Sheheen, is behind us, we have to have an honest discussion about where we were going in South Carolina and what the last few weeks have been about.

Let's start here, with the most important point: There is nothing that I am more committed to than the Port of Charleston. I know and believe in the Jasper Port. And I know that we have a port in Georgetown that has viability. I would never, ever, do anything that I believed would undermine the future of any of those ports. The ports are among the greatest economic development assets we have, and I will not stop until I see them succeed.

A little more than a year ago, I spoke in Charleston at the State of the Ports, and I told the people of this state, and every other, that I was tired of Georgia having their way with us on the ports. I meant that, every word of it, and I mean it now. But when I said it, I did not mean that we were going to stop Savannah, but that we were going to do something about our own port.

Not that we could have stopped Savannah. The Army Corps of Engineers, which is ultimately responsible for carrying out the dredging, had been quite clear: They intended to carry out the project, with or without DHEC's approval. Georgia was going to dredge for the Savannah port whether we liked it or not.

That being the case, DHEC got a fantastic deal for South Carolina. Where we would have gotten nothing, we instead got massive environmental concessions from Georgia, including the protection of almost 1,600 acres of wetlands and a commitment to pay to maintain the oxygen levels in the river for the next 50 years, protecting the Lowcountry's marine life.

Outside the environmental concessions, there's an important political point to be made. It's been fascinating to me that some of our leaders truly believe Congress would have funded the Charleston port project while South Carolina held Savannah's harbor hostage. That's just not realistic, and is, frankly, why Sen. Lindsey Graham was ecstatic when he heard Georgia had acceded to DHEC's permit requirements.

Sen. Graham needs the Georgia senators working with him to get Charleston's deepening money, not against him. And now he's got it. In mid-November, both Georgia senators and the Georgia governor publicly expressed their support for Charleston's project and their willingness to work to get it done. That's more than we ever had before.

Over the last 10 years, the leadership of this state at all levels failed in regard to the Charleston port. South Carolina watched Georgia invest in its port facilities, building distribution centers and transportation systems, and we sat on the sidelines and did nothing. And so, predictably, we also watched Savannah's port activity rise while ours dwindled, and Georgia's economy and citizens benefit from it while our suffered.

That is no longer the case. Today, we are fighting for the business of this state and for the ports of this state. But our fight is not with Savannah, not in the sense that we can or should use an environmental permitting board to undercut its ability to expand.

No, our fight is with ourselves -- with the political culture that exists in South Carolina that for too long has been comfortable saying "no" and "can't" and for accepting failure. That's not who I am. It's not who I believe South Carolina is. And I won't settle for it. We deserve better, and we will get it.

And while some in this state may be afraid of real, honest competition, I am not. I am not scared of a 48-foot deep Georgia port 36 miles up the Savannah River with one-way traffic. Not when I know we're going to have a 50-foot deep Charleston with post-Panamax ships rolling in and out both ways, with dual rail and a good system of distribution centers.

No, I am not afraid of that kind of competition.

We're South Carolinians. We will win every time.

Rob, I'm wondering if the governor would give me a few mins on phone for a story I'm doing tomorrow on whether the candidates should expect on the whisper campaigns or sharp attacks that have erupted in South Carolina in the past. Gov. Halley experienced this, and her candidate Mitt Romney may be vulnerable to similar whispers about his faith.

I'm n route to Columbia now, will be there this afternoon, and my deadline for this is tomorrow afternoon.

Thanks so much Rob. Apologies for bugging you on a Sunday.

For my story? Has she talked to Romney about how to respond in SC to any challenges to his legitimacy as a Christian? Has you all expect that kind of attack, given that it didn't seem to have much effect on her?

Thanks Rob.

Quote for attribution to Rob Godfrey, Haley spokesman: "When it comes to these cultural issues, Governor Haley told Governor Romney that her election went a long way to show South Carolina is not like that - we have thoughtful people who make good decisions. It's a state that elected a 38 year old Indian-American female governor, and that says enough about the goodness of the people in our great state."

Good morning Mr. Godfrey,

Hope this email finds you well and Happy New Year.

I'm writing to you from the NYC bureau of NHK – Japan Broadcasting Corporation, the country's largest broadcaster, which is also a public network.

We are doing a TV news story for a Japanese audience on how Mitt Romney might fare in the South Carolina primary (with examination into the fabric and nature of SC as a state, its demographics, economy, etc.) and would like to ask for an interview with Gov. Haley.

We would like to interview her about her endorsement of Romney (why, how did she make the decision, why does she think he will make a good President—the usual straight forward questions to understand her perspective), and also ask about the economy of South Carolina and the situation of the past few years until now, with jobs beginning to pick up again, and outlook/trajectory for the near future, what her plans are for the state, etc.

Also, we wanted to know if she might attend the FOX GOP debate on Monday, Jan. 16 in Myrtle Beach.

We were hoping to do the interview this week on Thursday or Friday, Jan. 12 or 13 if at all possible. Also available on the weekend, but will be heading down to Myrtle beach Sat. evening and staying through Monday night's debate. Alternately, we'd be able to interview Tuesday or Wednesday, Jan. 17 or 18. Obviously, Gov. Haley probably has an unimaginably busy schedule, but if there is any way she could squeeze us in for a very brief interview, we would greatly appreciate it.

I would be more than happy to discuss with you any questions that you may have, and many thanks in advance.

In the end, the things I cared about most were a focus on jobs and the economy, having the executive experience to deliver results to the American people, and finding someone that has never been a part of the destructive chaos that is Washington, D.C. Using those criteria, I have no doubt that Mitt Romney is the best choice.

Under President Obama's failed leadership, America has seen its credit rating downgraded, unemployment rise to new heights, and our national debt has shattered all records. We are heading in the same horrible direction as the dismal economies and bankrupt governments of Europe. In order to save our country from this catastrophe, we need to change directions fast.

From the unfunded expansion of Medicaid, to challenging our immigration law, to the outrageous attempt to intimidate Boeing from creating jobs in our state, the degree to which Washington is wreaking havoc on our budget and economy is something I did not fully appreciate before I became governor. I'm not sure anyone can appreciate it without sitting in this office. As a former governor, Mitt Romney has had the same experience. He knows the challenges that face our states, and understands what it will take to get the burdens off our backs.

The single biggest economic and budgetary threat to South Carolina in the years ahead is implementation of Obamacare. Governor Romney is fully committed to repealing Obamacare, and he has told me directly that he will grant South Carolina a waiver to get out from under it on his first day in office. He has also committed to finding a resolution to the Yucca Mountain disaster, including fighting alongside me to prevent the federal government from simply pocketing the money South Carolinians have already paid.

From where I sit, working every day to bring jobs to South Carolina and keep our budget balanced, Mitt Romney is the best choice. Hi Rob,

Hope your day is going well. For the story I'm working on we'd like to know the following:

How did Gov. Haley determine that Gov. Romney is the candidate she will support? What was it about Romney that made him stand out above the rest of the field for Mrs. Haley? Has there been any discussion about Gov. Haley potentially being Gov. Romney's running mate?

In light of the fact that most Tea Party supporters, a group that has largely been an ardent supporter of Gov. Haley, don't prefer Gov. Romney, is the governor at all worried about how her choice of Romney will be received by those supporters? I've spoken with several Tea Party supporters who say they are baffled by Gov. Haley's support for Romney, who they view as "Obama-lite" or worse.

Does Gov. Haley feel her endorsement will be able to help Romney secure a win in the South Carolina Primary?

Has the Governor's office received any complaints or praise from supporters about the Romney endorsement?

Thank you for your time, I know you are very busy and I appreciate you taking the time to answer these questions for us,

Hi again Rob,

Our network will be covering Romney's grassroots rally with Gov. Haley on Jan. 11 at 6:10PM in Columbia and I was hoping, if possible, to be able to do a very brief on camera interview with her in her office before the rally or any time that afternoon.

Might she be free?

Good morning Mr. Godfrey,

Hope this email finds you well and Happy New Year.

I'm writing to you from the NYC bureau of NHK – Japan Broadcasting Corporation, the country's largest broadcaster, which is also a public network.

We are doing a TV news story for a Japanese audience on how Mitt Romney might fare in the South Carolina primary (with examination into the fabric and nature of SC as a state, its demographics, economy, etc.) and would like to ask for an interview with Gov. Haley.

We would like to interview her about her endorsement of Romney (why, how did she make the decision, why does she think he will make a good President—the usual straight forward questions to understand her perspective), and also ask about the economy of South Carolina and the situation of the past few years until now, with jobs beginning to pick up again, and outlook/trajectory for the near future, what her plans are for the state, etc.

Also, we wanted to know if she might attend the FOX GOP debate on Monday, Jan. 16 in Myrtle Beach.

We were hoping to do the interview this week on Thursday or Friday, Jan. 12 or 13 if at all possible. Also available on the weekend, but will be heading down to Myrtle beach Sat. evening and staying through Monday night's debate. Alternately, we'd be able to interview Tuesday or Wednesday, Jan. 17 or 18. Obviously, Gov. Haley probably has an unimaginably busy schedule, but if there is any way she could squeeze us in for a very brief interview, we would greatly appreciate it.

I would be more than happy to discuss with you any questions that you may have, and many thanks in advance.

Best regards,

Subject: RE: GOP primary

Why I support Mitt Romney
By: Nikki Haley

As a state representative four years ago, I supported Mitt Romney for president. What I've learned since becoming governor has led me to once again support him for president this year.

I did not make this decision lightly. In the end, the things I cared about most were a focus on jobs and the economy, having the executive experience to deliver results to the American people, and finding someone that has never been a part of the destructive chaos that is Washington, D.C. Using those criteria, I have no doubt that Mitt Romney is the best choice.

The central issue facing South Carolina is our economy. Under President Obama's failed leadership, America has seen its credit rating downgraded, unemployment rise to new heights, and our national debt has shattered all records. We are heading in the same horrible direction as the dismal economies and bankrupt governments of Europe. In order to save our country from this catastrophe, we need to change directions fast.

Any Republican president would try to do that. But Mitt Romney knows how to turn things around – he's done it before. He knows what it means to make decisions - real decisions – and not simply cast a vote. He is not a creature of Washington. And he knows how the private economy works, and how to fix it.

As governor, I've also seen how Washington's policies have an enormous impact on South Carolina. From the unfunded expansion of Medicaid, to challenging our immigration law, to the outrageous attempt to intimidate Boeing from creating jobs in our state, the degree to which Washington is wreaking havoc on our budget and economy is something I did not fully appreciate before I became governor. I'm not sure anyone can appreciate it without sitting in this office. As a former governor, Mitt Romney has had the same experience. He knows the challenges that face our states, and understands what it will take to get the burdens off our backs.

I do not agree with Governor Romney 100% of the time, nor do I support every position he has ever taken. I don't agree with any of the candidates on everything. I don't need to. When I look at what he has accomplished – substantially cutting taxes and eliminating deficits in a heavily Democratic state, turning around the Olympics, building successful businesses and repairing troubled ones – I see someone who has the courage, experience, and knowledge to turn our economy around and get Americans back to work.

And there's one more thing. None of the conservative agenda will be advanced if we do not defeat President Obama next year. The single biggest economic and budgetary threat to South Carolina in the years ahead is implementation of Obamacare. Governor Romney is fully committed to repealing Obamacare, and he has told me directly that he will grant South Carolina a waiver to get out from under it on his first day in office. He has also committed to finding a resolution to the Yucca Mountain disaster, including fighting alongside me to prevent the federal government from simply pocketing the money South Carolinians have already paid.

I am convinced that Romney stands the best chance of defeating Obama. The person who convinced me of that was President Obama himself. The Democratic National Committee and the president's campaign attack Romney on a daily basis. They don't touch any of the other candidates. That ought to tell us loudly and clearly who they fear most.

I know some of my conservative friends and allies have a different view of the candidates. I respect their choices. From where I sit, working every day to bring jobs to South Carolina and keep our budget balanced, Mitt Romney is the best choice. He has the right agenda to get our country back on track, to get our economy moving again, and to deliver us results - and he has the experience and integrity we can count on.

We are set to do several pieces on economic issues related to South Carolina ahead of Saturday's primary and we'd love to set up an interview with the Governor. It would focus on her priorities in the state in terms of jobs, manufacturing, and immigration as well as touch on the Republican race and her support for Mitt Romney of course. We're happy to set this up at a time/location convenient for her. We have several correspondents in the state, but I think we'd likely do this with either Nancy Cordes or Mark Strassman, who are both focusing on the economy and not the GOP horse race. Let me know if this might be possible. Thanks.

Hello Rob,

I am sure speculation will run rampant today about why Governor Haley chose to stay home on Saturday night instead of be with Mitt Romney. Do you all have any other explanation you would like to offer than she was at home celebrating her birthday? I saw where she remains committed to supporting Mitt Romney on her Facebook page at 8 p.m. on Saturday, which was shortly after the election was called. Does Governor Haley remain committed to endorsing Gov. Romney.

Thanks for your time in answering these questions.

Nikki Haley

Michael and I would like to congratulate Speaker Newt Gingrich on his victory in South Carolina. He earned a strong victory today. The main issues in our state continue to be jobs and the economy. We are very proud of Governor Romney and continue to believe he would be the best candidate to defeat President Obama and strengthen our country again. As this race continues, we strongly believe that South Carolina will unite to make sure Pres. Obama is a one term President.

Yeah, below is what you said in Greenville News. Do you have a press release ready to go with those quotes on it? We are a different media outlet.

Rob Godfrey, a Haley spokesman, said Haley decided to celebrate her 40th birthday Saturday night at the Governor's Mansion with her family because she had campaigned all week with Romney and her husband was leaving Sunday for a week of National Guard duty.

"Saturday night was the only time she could celebrate her birthday with her family," he said. "That was the plan all along — regardless of the election outcome."

Godfrey said Haley was not concerned about any political fallout from her endorsement of Romney.

"And, frankly, she doesn't make decisions based on what politicians do or will say, but on what she believes is right for her state and country, and this was no different," he said.

Hi Rob,

We were wondering: How did the governor get up to New Hampshire to campaign with Mitt Romney and then get back to South Carolina? Did the Romney campaign pay for her flight and are they paying for all her travel expenses? Or did she take the state plane and the campaign will pay for it? Or is there some other option?

Thanks,

Look for an email from Zach Pippin with video where the governor talks about the Tea Party. Also, I will try to send you a statement. Thanks.

Rob –

Just secured a phone interview with a Tea Partier in SC that's upset with the Governor's backing of Mitt Romney.

I just wanted to alert you of the segment to see if the Governor would like to chime in on the issue.

Many thanks,
Dan

Hey Rob –

Would the Governor be available this afternoon or another day in the near future to discuss Obama's recess-appointments? We'd also be interested in discuss Mitt Romney's new NLRB ad & what impact the Governor feels the issue will play in a few weeks at the Primary.

Happy to do this on-camera OR on the phone in the 4pm ET hour.

Thanks!
Dan

No worries about bugging me. That's what I'm here for.

Unfortunately, the governor doesn't have any availability.

But feel free to reach out going forward any time you need us.

Rob, I'm wondering if the governor would give me a few mins on phone for a story I'm doing tomorrow on whether the candidates should expect on the whisper campaigns or sharp attacks that have erupted in South Carolina in the past. Gov. Halley experienced this, and her candidate Mitt Romney may be vulnerable to similar whispers about his faith.

I'm n route to Columbia now, will be there this afternoon, and my deadline for this is tomorrow afternoon.

Thanks so much Rob. Apologies for bugging you on a Sunday.

Quote for attribution to Rob Godfrey, Haley spokesman: "When it comes to these cultural issues, Governor Haley told Governor Romney that her election went a long way to show South Carolina is not like that - we have thoughtful people who make good decisions. It's a state that elected a 38 year old Indian-American female governor, and that says enough about the goodness of the people in our great state."

Okay, thanks. Can you come

For my story? Has she talked to Romney about how to respond in SC to any challenges to his legitimacy as a Christian? Has you all expect that kind of attack, given that it didn't seem to have much effect on her?

Thanks Rob.

Would Gov. Haley be willing to comment on Mitt Romney's Mexican background and whether she thinks that might help lure Hispanic voters in the Jan. 21 primary?
Just let me know.

Hello Rob,

I am sure speculation will run rampant today about why Governor Haley chose to stay home on Saturday night instead of be with Mitt Romney. Do you all have any other explanation you would like to offer than she was at home celebrating her birthday? I saw where she remains committed to supporting Mitt Romney on her Facebook page at 8 p.m. on Saturday, which was shortly after the election was called. Does Governor Haley remain committed to endorsing Gov. Romney.

Thanks for your time in answering these questions.
Sean

Nikki Haley

Michael and I would like to congratulate Speaker Newt Gingrich on his victory in South Carolina. He earned a strong victory today. The main issues in our state continue to be jobs and the economy. We are very proud of Governor Romney and continue to believe he would be the best candidate to defeat President Obama and strengthen our country again. As this race continues, we strongly believe that South Carolina will unite to make sure Pres. Obama is a one term President.
