Gov. Nikki Haley, SCE&G Officials, And The Central Carolina Community Foundation Give Update On One SC Fund

SCE&G Announces $200,000 Donation, Gov. Haley Renews Call For South Carolinians To Donate

COLUMBIA, S.C. – Governor Nikki Haley held a press conference today with Kevin Marsh, CEO of SCANA Corporation, Keller Kissam, President of Retail Operations with the South Carolina Electric & Gas Company (SCE&G), and JoAnn Turnquist, President and CEO of the Central Carolina Community Foundation (CCCF), to give an update on the fundraising efforts for the One SC Fund.

During the press conference, Kissam announced a surprise donation from SCE&G of $100,000 in addition to a previously pledged donation of $100,000 – resulting in a total contribution of $200,000 from the company to the One SC Fund.

"When you look at the donations of a company like SCE&G that's thinking past just getting the power back on, but actually thinking about getting people back into safe homes, and when you look at what neighbors are doing to help each other, whether they know each other or not, this is one South Carolina, it has always been one South Carolina, and that's why we call this the One SC Fund," said Gov. Nikki Haley.

"It's hard to believe that just one year after the historic floods in South Carolina, the Palmetto state is now recovering from Hurricane Matthew," said Kevin Marsh, chief executive officer of SCANA Corporation, parent company of SCE&G. "We are grateful for everything the OneSC Relief Fund has done to help our neighbors here in South Carolina recover from these natural disasters, and we're proud to announce our support for these relief efforts today. Although there's still lot of work to be done to get the lives and homes of many South Carolinians back to normal, we believe our state will be stronger in the long run."

Established to assist South Carolinians recovering from natural disasters, the One SC Fund's first project was providing relief and recovery assistance to South Carolinians in the aftermath of last year's thousand year flood. Thanks to generous donors, One SC has distributed nearly $2,000,000 in grants to nonprofit organizations supporting flood recovery projects across our state. Those grants have resulted in approximately 1,500 families returning home.

In the aftermath of Hurricane Matthew, Governor Haley, alongside the Central Carolina Community

Foundation, announced a plan to expand fundraising efforts of the One SC Fund to help those impacted by the storm.
