

Account: South Carolina State Parks

Content type: Facebook Page - Timeline posts

Record ID: 20160316South-Carolina-State-ParksTimeline-posts52748_10154003657283166

South Carolina State Parks

at 11:50:01 on 3/16/2016 UTC ·

SPACE REMAINS for the South Carolina Lowcountry Archaeological Conference, Saturday, March 19 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. $29/person. Click here to register:

<http://www.southcarolinaparks.com/ctl/storiesFeatures.aspx?id=52>

A poster for an archaeological conference. The background is a light green and blue gradient with a faint image of a coastal landscape. The text is centered and reads:

Archaeological Conference for the South Carolina Lowcountry

Presents:

Living on the Edge
Coastal Communities Past and Present

Humans for millennia have been drawn to coastal regions, owing to the rich ecological resources found at the intersection of marine and terrestrial environments. This year's conference theme looks at these lowcountry communities and explores the environmental influence on socio-economic engagement, adaptation, and creolization. Scheduled presentations will include topics ranging from archaeology, history, oral history, folklife studies, and landscape preservation.

Saturday, March 19, 2016
9am-4pm
Alumni Center
School of Education, Health and Human Performance
86 Wentworth Street
Charleston, SC 29401

Visit SouthCarolinaParks.com/CTL/StoriesFeatures.aspx?id=52 for more information or call David Jones at 803-734-1521.

Organized by the South Carolina Department of Parks, Recreation, & Tourism, the Archaeology Program and Department of Anthropology and Sociology, College of Charleston and the Archaeology Club of the College of Charleston