Christian,

Did you want to touch base briefly tomorrow with Robyn and myself about potential governor's visit/press event? I don't believe the USC School of Medicine-Greenville has training in place yet for medical students, although they are talking about having a section early in curriculum to address it. There are alternative fresh news elements, however, that we could potentially use in a media event featuring the governor. (Or perhaps you've already identified likely news peg?)

Robyn is broadly available between 9:30-11 a.m. if you just wanted to have a quick 15-minute conversation.

Thanks much, Sandy
