

From: Taillon, Jeff

To: Taillon, Jeff <JeffTaillon@gov.sc.gov>

Date: 3/1/2013 1:34:28 PM

Subject: S.C. Front Pages - Friday, March 1, 2013

---

It's here
JetBlue arrives
in Charleston
BUSINESS, B6

RIVALRY WEEKEND
Who will win?
SPORTS, C1

The Post and Courier

THE SOUTH'S OLDEST DAILY NEWSPAPER • FOUNDED 1803

FRIDAY, March 1, 2013

POSTANDCOURIER.COM

Charleston, North Charleston, S.C. ★★ $1.00

TV Week Plus debuts today

Look for a preview of our improved and expanded TV Week Plus in today's Post and Courier. The section will have 16 more pages, 47 more popular channels, two full pages of puzzles, expanded cable, college sports highlights and much more delivered to your home for only $2 per month.

To order delivery with your newspaper starting March 8, call 852-FOST (7628) or go to postandcourier.com/tvweek.

SLED investigating allegations that Harrell misused funds, office
Local & State, B1

Man accused of using Facebook to solicit minors
Local, B3

Declutter your home without overspending on cleaning supplies
Savvy Shopper column, D1

SPECIAL REPORT
Forgotten South Carolina
Coming Sunday: Part 4

South Carolina does not have to continue to live with its disparities. Solutions do exist, but it will take commitment and money.

Partly sunny.
High 55, Low 34.
Complete 5-day forecast, B8

CONTACT US
Classified: 722-8596
Home delivery: 852-FOST (7628)
General offices: 722-2111
Newsroom: 312-5582

INDEX

Bridge	B6	Local News	B1
Business	B6	Movies	B2
Classified	E1	Music	B1
Comics	B4,5	Obituaries	B4
Entertainment	B4,11	Sports	C1
Editorial	B3	Sudoku	B2
Housepage	B7	Television	B3

Setting the record straight: A3

Boeing laying off workers

Contract employees affected; moves not tied to battery problems

BY BRENDAN KEARNEY
BKearney@postandcourier.com

After years of fast-paced growth, Boeing South Carolina is weeding itself off the contract workers who have helped get the company's 787 plant off the ground.

The aerospace giant on Thursday acknowledged that it is starting to eliminate some of the temporary hired hands at its North Charleston manufacturing campus.

The workforce reductions were first reported by The Wall Street Journal, which, citing an unidentified person, said the cuts could total hundreds of workers.

The cuts are part of a cost savings plan that predates the Jan. 16 grounding of the 787, according to the journal, citing an unidentified person familiar with the plan.

The reductions, which mainly affect contractors as opposed to Boeing direct employees, started late last year and eventually will claim as much as 20 percent of certain teams at the factory complex, the person told the journal.

Boeing has more than 6,000 workers, mostly direct employees, in North Charleston. The journal report Thursday came on the same

Please see B0106, Page A9

Inside
Boeing reports 787 battery fix to regulators, B6

Eat, drink, etc.

Wine + Food Opening Night Party offers up everything from octopus to tom-yum-goong

Attendees entering the Opening Night Party of the Charleston Wine + Food Festival on Thursday night at the S.C. Aquarium were greeted with an event-appropriate projection.

BY TERESA TAYLOR
Taylor@postandcourier.com

Who knows if the fish were amused, but the schools of people on the other side of the glass got a kick out of the divers in the water wearing chef's hats and aprons and waving signs that said "Enjoy the bites!"

And they were, in a feeding frenzy at two dozen chef's stations Thursday night at the Opening Night Party of the EB&T Charleston Wine + Food Festival at the South Carolina Aquarium.

The bait was a culinarian's dream of plates bearing everything from braised octopus with smoked carrots (from restaurant Triton) to quail lugagna (Tattoria Lucca). Pat then served a boddy pecan salad and Charleston Grill's Thai shrimp-soup called tom-yum-goong.

Drew English of Johns Island helped himself to MacIntosh chef Jeremiah Bacon's corned beef tongue with pickled walrus. "It was really good," he said. "But I was a little hesitant."

English said it was his fourth time at the Opening Night Party, which is designed as a "Salute to Charleston Chefs."

Please see FESTIVAL, Page A9

Travis Grimes from Husk served chilled English pea soup with sweet blue crab Meyer lemon yogurt for the Opening Night Party.

Go to postandcourier.com/galleries to see more photos. For more coverage, go to postandcourier.com/wine-food.

Locally, little love for pols in D.C.

"They never seem to solve anything"

BY SCHUYLER KROFF and ANDREW KNAPP
skroff@postandcourier.com
aknapp@postandcourier.com

With all the political noise coming out of Washington, Colline McCoy of Goose Creek says she lost the last bit of faith in government "about two years ago."

Restaurant owner Denis O'Doherty thinks Congress, by design, is hard-wired to keep Americans living in fear. And West Ashley resident Tom Lewis thinks politicians have spent so much time in the D.C. bubble that they've lost focus on who they're supposed to be helping.

He compares Washington spenders to a family living on $60,000 a year salary but going above and beyond their means, freely racking up hundreds of thousands of dollars in credit card debt.

The looming sequestration cuts? "Yeah, I'm good with it," he said. "Because we've got to get spending under control."

With the nation facing its second spending cliff in two months, Lowcountry residents say the repeated examples of 11th-hour financial "chicken" are more aimed at benefiting politicians on Sunday talk shows than in actually addressing the tough and nagging questions.

"It's disturbing to me that the government has no issue giving themselves pay raises, while we go without," Jennifer Miklos Holstein, 33, a construction coordinator who lives in Summerville, told The Post and Courier on Facebook.

"They never seem to solve anything, yet they constantly try to distract us with what I consider 'smoke & mirror' issues — like gay marriage. It's all so ridiculous because they DO nothing of any importance. They fight amongst themselves and name-call and act like fools."

Please see GOVERNMENT, Page A4

Candidates offer variety of views — briefly

BY ROBERT BEHRP
rbehrp@postandcourier.com

READ MORE
For more coverage, go to postandcourier.com/first-district.

All but one of the 16 Republicans vying in their party's 1st Congressional District primary fielded more than a dozen questions Thursday and parted ways on several major issues.

Earlier forums have taken the same amount of time, about two hours, but got around to posing as few as two questions for the field, or allowed only two candidates to answer, skipping over the rest.

Moderator Robert New of the Charleston's Propeller Club forced the hopefuls to do something most politicians often can't or won't — give a very brief answer.

About 150 people from the Lowcountry's port community showed up, as did Gov.

Nikki Haley, who has remained neutral in the primary so far. Her reaction when it was over? "A good time," she said.

Candidates did their best to single out their own personal tie to Charleston's port.

Tim Larkin was the only GOP hopeful absent, and the rest agreed on some issues, such as their universal desire not to see the nation's budget debate postponed yet again.

They also agreed they would not support

Please see CANDIDATES, Page A9

Gov. Nikki Haley debated the debate Thursday.

HISTORIC RIVALRY: USC, CLEMSON MEET AGAIN ON DIAMOND THIS WEEKEND. C1

Key role: Columbia native lands big part in new Hollywood movie, in Weekend

IRMO SHOOTS FOR MORE THAN TITLE

INSIDE

JUSTIN MCKIE follows in his father's footsteps. C1

STATE FINALS schedule. C1

ONLINE

Live updates and photos from tonight's games, at thestate.com

State championship would cap Yellow Jackets' unbeaten season

By CHRIS DEARING
Special to The State

Tim Whipple will be looking to add to his legacy among the elite coaches in South Carolina when Irmo plays Goose Creek in the Class 4A boys basketball state championship game tonight at Colonial Life Arena.

Whipple, who has more than 600 career wins, is aiming for his fifth state title in his 32 years at Irmo. It is his eighth appearance in the championship game.

He also could accomplish something he has never done before — have an undefeated team. He had a run in the 1990s when he appeared in five of six state championship games, but the best record during that time was in 1995 when the Yellow Jackets, led by BJ McKie, finished

FILE PHOTOGRAPH BY THE STATE

Irmo basketball coach Tim Whipple is shooting for his fifth state title.

SEE IRMO PAGE A6

USC FOOTBALL

Season ticket prices rising $45

Individual home game tickets will also increase

By ANDREW SHAIN
ashain@thestate.com

AIRBN — Get ready to pay more to see the Gamecocks play football.

The University of South Carolina will raise season football ticket prices by $45 to $305 starting this year to pay for new facilities, athletics director Ray Tanner said Thursday. Ticket prices had not risen since 2008. Average game ticket prices will increase by nearly $6.50 to $52 for seven home games. That's twice as much as the average ticket cost in 2002.

Tanner said he expects some fan backlash, but USC's higher ticket prices rank in the middle of 14 Southeastern Conference schools. Still, fans have not come back to Williams-Brice Stadium in the same numbers since the Gamecocks started charging an annual fee of up to $395 per seat.

South Carolina football

SEE TICKETS PAGE A6

INSIDE

USC BOARD OKS raises for assistant coaches. C2

INDOOR FOOTBALL practice facility gets OK. C2

The State

FRIDAY, MARCH 1, 2013 | THESTATE.COM

CONTROVERSIAL SENATE DRUG BILL

JOHN KIM FOSTER/TORBIA/SIPA/FOSTER@THESTATE.COM

War on meth could make it tougher to get cold medication

INSIDE

More S.C. political news on Page A4

By ADAM BEAM
abeam@thestate.com

A proposed S.C. law would make you get a prescription to buy some common cold medicines.

The bill is designed to combat production of methamphetamine, or "meth," a dangerously addictive drug that is also dangerous to make. But critics worry the bill would do more harm than good, driving up costs for consumers and possibly increasing the state's Medicaid costs.

SEQUESTRATION

Agencies in S.C. brace for cuts

Some credit unions to offer loans to furloughed workers

By JAMIE SELF
jself@thestate.com

The impact of $85 billion in across-the-board cuts to the federal budget may not be immediately felt in South Carolina when they take effect today.

But some credit unions are getting ready anyway, offering "sequestration" loans of up to $2,000 to federal workers who are members and are furloughed.

Some federal agencies say government employees could be furloughed one day a week from April to September, losing up to 20 percent of their pay. Workers will be given 30 days notice before furloughs begin.

INSIDE

How looming cuts will hurt hospitals in S.C., nationwide. Page A4

Beyond those scant details, much of how "sequestration" will affect South Carolina remains unclear. Programs impacting the elderly and the poor are exempt, including Social Security, veteran benefits, and those that provide food stamps and assistance to families and children in need.

But as the cuts, caused by the U.S. Congress' failure to reduce the deficit, take shape, they are likely to have a broad impact on the state.

In Washington, at a meeting of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, Columbia Mayor Steve Benjamin said Thursday the cuts and those that may follow — as the nation moves toward another debate over whether to increase the federal government's borrowing limit — will have serious impacts on local governments.

"These across-the-board cuts, with no attention to where our national priorities are, is not the way to do business," Benjamin said.

BUSINESS NOT SO FAST

E GREENVILLE Enjoy some face time

The Greenville News

A GANNETT COMPANY

FRIDAY,
MARCH 1, 2013
GREENVILLEONLINE.COM

INSIDE

Obama administration adds its support to same-sex marriage, 5A

FINAL EDITION

BUDGET BATTLE

Senate rejects block on cuts

Votes turn down
sequester alternatives

By Susan Davis
USA Today

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Senate failed Thursday to pass either Republican or Democratic alternatives to $85 billion in across-the-board spending cuts, nearly guaranteeing that the cuts will take effect Friday.

The Democratic alternative would have replaced the cuts with a combination of a minimum 30 percent tax on millionaires and cuts to defense and farm programs. It failed 51-49.

"I really believe that the American people deserve better than what the Republicans in this building believe is the right thing," said Senate Minority Leader Harry Reid, D-Nev.

The Republican alternative would have transferred sweeping authority to President Barack Obama to force him to determine how to implement the cuts instead of the across-the-board reductions. The GOP measure was defeated 62-38.

"(Democrats) want it to fail, so they can go around the country blaming Republicans for a sequester the president proposed," said Senate Minority Leader Mitch McConnell, R-Ky.

The president and congressional leaders will make a final attempt at a pre-deadline compromise at a White House meeting Friday morning, but top lawmakers conceded the prospects were dim for a deal in the short-term. "Hopefully, by the end of March, people will see the light and understand that we're not standing for this," said House Minority Leader Nancy Pelosi, D-Calif.

Both Senate proposals needed a 60-vote supermajority to pass, but either vehicle was dead from the start.

The GOP-controlled House opposed the Senate Demo-

UPSTATE BRACES FOR IMPACT OF CUTS

"I CAN'T IMAGINE DOING THAT TO MY OWN BUSINESS, MAKING A 7 PERCENT CUT IN EVERYTHING I DO. SOME THINGS YOU JUST CAN'T CUT 7 PERCENT."

LORI MORTON
OWNER OF AERIE ENGINEERING

"EVENTUALLY IT WILL BE FELT, OF COURSE, WITH LESS MONEY INTO THE ECONOMY AND EVEN MERCHANTS FROM THE RESTAURANT SIDE WILL FEEL IT."

RUBÉN MONTALVO
OWNER OF CATINFLAS RESTAURANT

MAKING YOUR VOICE HEARD

"ANY TIME THERE'S A GREAT DEAL OF UNCERTAINTY — AND ALL THIS DOES IS ADD UNCERTAINTY INTO THE MIX — IT SLOWS BUSINESS INVESTMENT."

WALTER DAVIS
CO-CHIEF EXECUTIVE OF CERTUSBANK

"I THINK THE BIGGEST PROBLEM IS GOVERNMENT SPENDING. WE'RE JUST LITTLE DOTS ON THE MAP."

BRYAN WHITAKER
TECH SUPPORT WORKER

"IT'S NOT THE ADAGE OF ONE STEP FORWARD, TWO BACK. IT'S ONE STEP FORWARD, SIX BACK."

WILL MCCAULEY III
PRESIDENT OF CREATIVE BUILDERS INC.

"...THEY'RE JUST SO HARD-HEADED THAT BOTH SIDES JUST DON'T WANT TO COME TO AGREEMENT."

WANDA JACKSON
SCHOOL VOLUNTEER

By Ron Barnett, David Dykes and Angelia Davis
Staff writers

Frustrated and fearful, Upstate residents, small business owners and industry leaders say they can't believe their government missed its own deadline — set in 2011 — for stopping $85 billion in automatic spending cuts, and it has them worried how the sequestration would affect everything from their children's education to their ability to hire new workers.

Wanda Jackson was edgy Thursday at A.J. Whittenberg Elementary School of Engineering, and it wasn't the task of trimming laminated folders for students there that had her feeling that way. It was what the federal government is doing — or not doing — on the budget impasse.

"I think they're being very stubborn," she said as she worked the scissors. "I think that they're just so hard-headed that both sides just don't want to come to agreement. But I'm praying that eventually they will come to an agreement because it'll be better for all of us."

Jackson, who has a daughter in the fourth grade at the downtown Greenville school, volunteers every day to lend teachers a hand. She hasn't written

MORE ONLINE

Hear what local residents had to say about the possible impacts of sequestration at GreenvilleOnline.com.

to her congressman yet, but now she plans to.

"It is something that we all need to get involved in because if we think it's not going to affect us, it will affect all of us eventually," she said.

Down the street, Bryan Whitaker was pushing his one-year-old son in a swing at Cleveland Park.

See CUTS, Page 3A

Quidditch coming to North Augusta, SC

Aiken Standard

YOUR LOCAL NEWS SOURCE SINCE 1867

FRIDAY, March 1, 2013

AIKENSTANDARD.COM

Vol. 147, No. 60 Aiken, S.C. ★★ 75¢

Man faces multiple burglary charges

BY TEDDY KULMALA
tkulmala@aikenstandard.com

A Saluda man was served more than a dozen burglary-related warrants in Aiken County on Tuesday for his alleged role in a multi-county burglary ring that was busted last year, according to the Aiken County Sheriff's Office.

Pace

Tonnie Pace, 33, of Old Charleston Highway in Saluda, was charged with four counts of first-degree burglary, nine counts of second-degree burglary and five counts of grand larceny. He was placed in the Aiken County detention center.

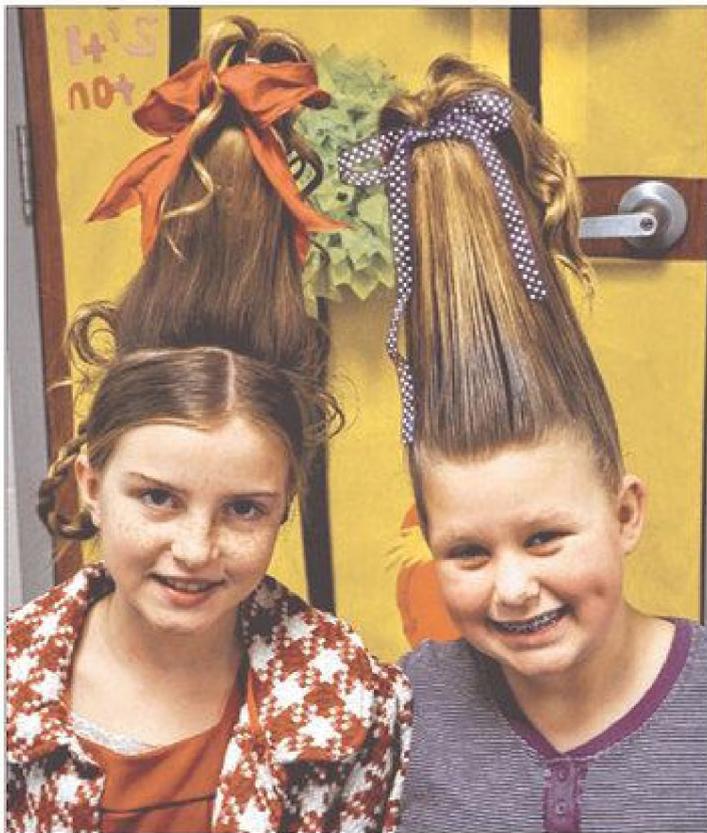

Capt. Troy Elwell said Pace was serving time on related charges and was transported to Aiken County to be served the warrants here. Pace was serving a 15-year sentence in Saluda County on burglary charges, according to the S.C. Department of Corrections.

Pace and a second man, 42-year-old Stacy Walker, were identified as the ones responsible for 13 residential burglaries in Aiken County from November 2011 to February 2012, according to previous reports.

The two men allegedly broke into homes in Aiken, Graniteville, Ridge Spring, Monetta and Batesburg, and took televisions, computers and other electronics, cash and jewelry, according to reports from the Sheriff's Office.

Pace and Walker were two of six people arrested and charged in March 2012 in connection with nearly 100 burglaries in Saluda, Greenwood, Newberry, Lexington and Spartanburg counties. The other four individuals were detained on charges associated with possession of the items stolen from the homes.

Students celebrate Dr. Seuss

STAFF PHOTO BY ROB NOWIT

Jody Hutto, left, and Abigail Heyward became the Cindy Lou Who stars during Dr. Seuss' birthday celebration at Chukker Creek Elementary School Thursday. Read complete story on 2A.

Study outlines impact of waste storage at SRS

BY MIKE GELLATLY
mgellatly@aikenstandard.com

The Savannah River Site is likely a prime contender for storing spent nuclear fuel for decades to come, according to a report released Thursday.

The study by Robert Alvarez, a former senior adviser at the Department of Energy and professor at Johns Hopkins University, outlines the possible impact of making SRS an interim storage site for the country's commercial nuclear power plant waste.

Recently formed environmental group Don't Waste Aiken commissioned Alvarez, an expert on nuclear waste with Washington, D.C., think tank The Policy Institute, to produce a study outlining the impact of storing spent nuclear fuel at SRS.

Speaking at a press conference announcing his findings, Alvarez outlined the amount of radioactivity spent fuel could bring — more than double the radioactivity present at SRS currently in high-level waste could be delivered.

High level liquid waste tanks at SRS have near 280 million curies of radioactivity. Spent fuel looking to be stored could bring 1 billion curies to the DOE-owned site.

Please see SRS Page 5A

Cuts imminent, Senate rejects stopgap efforts

BY DAVID ESPO
Associated Press

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Squabbling away the hours, the Senate swatted aside last-ditch plans to block $85 billion in broad-based federal spending reductions Thursday as President Barack Obama and Republicans blamed each other for the latest outbreak of gridlock and the administration readied plans to put the cuts into effect.

"So entrenched were the two parties that the Senate chaplain, Barry Black, opened the day's session with a prayer that beseeched a higher power to intervene.

"Rise up, O God, and save us from ourselves," he said of cuts due to take effect sometime on Friday back on its earlier warnings of long lines developing quickly at airports and teacher layoffs affecting classrooms.

Sturdier U.S. economy can withstand budget cuts, 9A

On the Senate floor, a Republican proposal requiring Obama to propose alternative cuts that would cause less disruption in essential government services fell to overwhelming Democratic opposition, 62-38.

Moments later, a Democratic alternative to spread the cuts over a decade and replace half with higher taxes on millionaires and corporations won a bare majority, 51-49, but that was well shy of the 60 needed to advance. Republicans opposed it

AP PHOTO

Sen. Bob Corker, R-Tenn., left, and Sen. Jeff Flake, R-Ariz., right, leave the Senate chamber during votes on last-ditch motions to block $85 billion in automatic spending cuts at the Capitol in Washington, D.C.

... "They voted to let the entire

He noted that he would meet

INSIDE

Talks continue on solution to Dougherty Road traffic

Local News, 3A

AREA DEATHS

Merle L. Carroll, Graniteville
Russell Andrews Messick, Aiken
Willie James Dunbar Jr., New Ellenton

Deaths and Funerals, 6A

WEATHER

The Beaufort Gazette

FRIDAY, March 1, 2013

beaufortgazette.com

Established in 1897 50 cents

BEAUFORT COUNTY SCHOOL DISTRICT

Moss selected as new superintendent

Jeffrey Moss
New superintendent

Board cites commitment to technology, improvements

By TOM BARTON
tbarton@beaufortgazette.com
843-706-8169

The Beaufort County school board chose Lee County, N.C., schools superintendent Jeffrey Moss over Gloria J. Davis of Decatur, Ill., to be the district's next superintendent — despite Davis' backing by senior staff.

The Board of Education voted 9-2 Thursday — with Laura Bush and Michael Rivers dissenting — to name Moss superintendent, pending approval of an employment contract. He would begin work July 1.

"I am honored," Moss said in an email.

"... During my visits and conversations with board members and staff it was clear the No. 1 priority is the education of our citizens and students. I am looking forward to working with board members, staff, parents, community and

Please see MOSS on 7A

ON THE WEB

Click on this story at beaufortgazette.com to learn more about Jeffrey Moss and for video of school board chairman Bill Evans and secretary Laura Bush's views on the man selected — and the woman who was not — to lead the school district.

POPE BENEDICT XVI'S RETIREMENT

FOND FAREWELL

As bells tolled and the clock struck 8, the brass-studded wooden doors swung shut Thursday at this palace in the Italian hills, marking an end to Benedict XVI's papacy and the start of his final journey as a "simple pilgrim."

Capping a day of tearful farewells that included an extraordinary pledge of obedience to his successor, Benedict entered history as the first pope in 600 years to resign — leaving the Catholic Church in unprecedented limbo and ending a pontificate shaped by struggles to move beyond clerical sex abuse scandals and reawaken Christianity in an indifferent world.

To read the full story, see page 7A.

The Associated Press

IN BEAUFORT

Farmers market changes outlined

Organizers hope shortening the season and changing the hours will bring in more customers.

By ERIN MOODY
eremoody@beaufortgazette.com
843-706-8184

Organizers of the downtown Beaufort farmers market want to keep the weekly event on West Street again this season — but they want to shorten the season and shift operating hours.

This year, the market could open at the beginning of May and run through September, according to LaNelle Fabian, director of Main Street Beaufort, USA, which runs the market.

The season ran from mid-May through October last year, when the market's opening was delayed by several changes, including a move from

Please see MARKET on 7A

Harrell inquiry in progress

By STEPHEN LARGEN
postandcourier.com

COLUMBIA — State Law Enforcement Division agents have begun investigating allegations that House Speaker Bobby Harrell used his campaign ac-

FEDERAL SPENDING REDUCTIONS

Last-ditch effort fails; automatic cuts start today

Although the president plans to meet with congressional leaders That raised the stakes for a meet-

Power surge:

Lockhart utility, Pacolet Milliken break ground on new HQ C4

Herald-Journal

FRIDAY

MARCH 1, 2013
SPARTANBURG, S.C.
50 cents

www.GoUpstate.com

HJ
IN A HURRY

5 Things to read today

Lying speedometers

Why do most cars sold in the U.S. have speedometers that show top speeds they can't possibly reach? The answer has deep roots in an American culture that loves the rush of driving fast, among other reasons. PAGE A4

Suspect arrested

A self-described pimp was arrested on Thursday in Los Angeles, ending a weeklong manhunt that began after a shooting and fiery crash that killed three people on the Las Vegas Strip. PAGE A3

Gay marriage

In a historic argument for gay rights, President Barack Obama on Thursday urged the Supreme Court to overturn California's same-sex marriage ban and turn a skeptical eye on similar prohibitions across the country. PAGE A3

Name change

The Gibbs Cancer Center at Spartanburg Regional Healthcare System has a new name. The facility, which opened in 1999, is now called the Gibbs Cancer Center & Research Institute. PAGE C1

Battling back

Though he's suffering from a debilitating illness, Guillain-Barre syndrome, an Upstate pastor believes something good will come from his experience. PAGE E1

Weather

Time running short

Last-ditch plans to avert automatic spending cuts make no headway

By DAVID ESPO
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Squabbling away the hours, the Senate swatted aside last-ditch plans to block $85 billion in broad-based federal spending reductions Thursday as President Barack Obama and Republicans blamed each other for the latest outbreak of gridlock and the administration readied plans to put the cuts into effect.

So entrenched were the two parties that the Senate chaplain, Barry Black, opened the day's session with a prayer that beseeched a higher power to intervene.

"Rise up, O God, and save us from ourselves," he said of cuts due to take effect today.

The immediate impact of the reductions on the public was uncertain, and the administration pulled back on its earlier warnings of long lines developing quickly at airports and teacher layoffs affecting classrooms.

J. SCOTT APPLEWHITE/AP

The Capitol dome in Washington is seen as automatic spending cuts are set to take effect tonight.

On the Senate floor, a Republican proposal requiring Obama to propose alternative cuts that would cause less disruption in essential government services fell to overwhelming Democratic opposition, 62-38.

Moments later, a Democratic alternative to spread the cuts over a decade and replace half with higher taxes on millionaires and corporations won a bare majority, 51-49, but that was well shy of the 60 needed to advance. Republicans opposed it without exception.

In a written statement after the

◆ SEE CUTS PAGE A5

Impact of cuts in the Upstate still uncertain

By FELICIA KITZMILLER
and KIM KIMZEY
Staff writers

With only two days left before widespread cuts to federally funded programs, the exact consequences to Upstate residents are unclear.

Local administrators of federal grant programs are following the news to understand how the impending sequester could affect their budgets and services.

"We've received no information on what might happen," said Ekky Foss, director of Early Head Start at Spartanburg County First Steps. "We have received no guidance ..."

"I really think everyone thought this was going to be fixed," Foss said.

The nation's leaders continue to debate the solution to reducing the federal deficit, but barring a last-minute deal, the cuts will go into effect at the end of today.

Schools

After years of state cuts,

◆ SEE IMPACT PAGE A5

On a fast track to US citizenship

Army offers path for immigrants with language or medical specialties

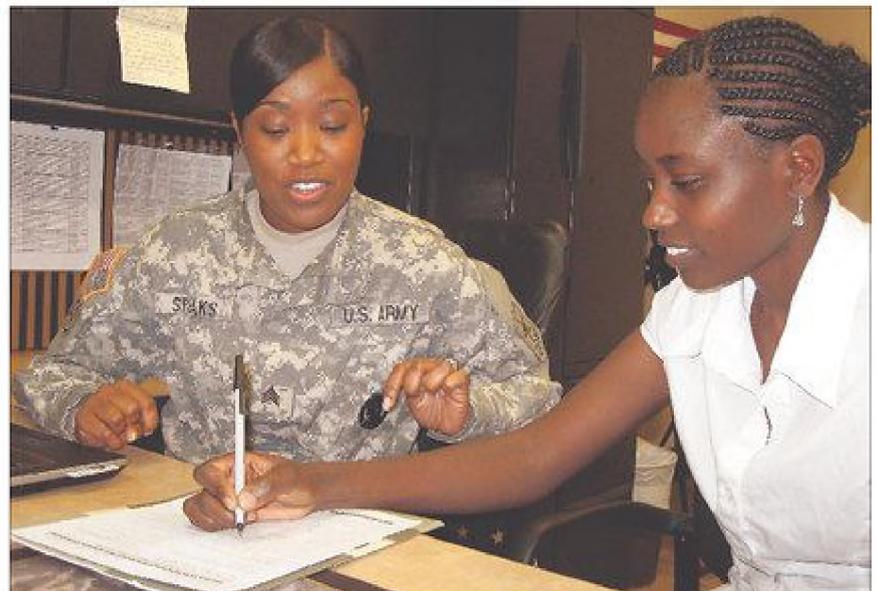

By SUSANNE M. SCHAFER
The Associated Press

SPARTANBURG — Carolyne Chelulei came to the United States from Kenya on a student visa for a college education, but now the Army is offering her the chance to stay for good as a citizen.

The 23-year-old is one of several hundred immigrants whose specialized skills, either in languages or in their professional background, make them eligible for a Pentagon program that repays service in uniform with an accelerated path to citizenship.

"I am excited about it," Chelulei said while visiting in her recruiter's office. "I like helping people, and I think I will be a great asset to America, to the Army."

As debate swirls in Washington about changing the nation's policies on immigration, the Army is

SUSANNE M. SCHAFER/AP FILE

INDEX-JOURNAL

VOL. 94, NO. 303

A PAPAL SENDOFF

PAGE 9A

LANDER
SQUADS HIT
THE COURT

IN SPORTS

PHOTOS BY CHRIS TRAINOR | INDEX JOURNAL

Republican District 11 state Rep. Craig Gagnon, top, is in his freshman term at the state House of Representatives. Gagnon represents Abbeville County and part of Anderson County.

NEW TO THE POLITICAL SCENE

THE FRESHMEN

Riley, Gagnon finding their way in first year in House

By CHRIS TRAINOR
ctrainor@indexjournal.com

Last year, Republicans Shannon Riley and Craig Gagnon worked tirelessly in an effort to get elected to the South Carolina House of Representatives.

Since accomplishing that goal, the two political newcomers have been thrown into the deep end of the Statehouse pool and told to sink or swim. To hear their colleagues tell it, the two freshmen are swimming just fine.

Inside

Greenwood High School state championship football team honored by local stars

Riley, a timber farmer and small businessman from Hodges, represents Florence

Republican District 13 state Rep. Shannon Riley speaks Thursday at the podium at the Statehouse. Riley presented the Greenwood High School football team a framed resolution honoring the Eagles for winning the 2012 Class AAAA Division

■ ABBEVILLE COUNTY SCHOOLS

Superintendent search continues

District stakeholders share what they want to see in Randolph's successor

By MICHELLE LAXER
mlaxer@indexjournal.com

ABBEVILLE — School district stakeholders painted a picture of their ideal superintendent candidate as an approachable leader with plenty of experience in a variety of areas, according to results from recent focus groups.

Henry Hunt, a search consultant with the South Carolina Schools Boards Association, shared the report with the district's board of trustees during a meeting Tuesday night.

Current superintendent Ivan Randolph is retiring in June, and the board selected the school boards association to handle the logistics of the hiring process.

On Feb. 12 and 13, the association hosted focus group meetings to get an idea of what was desired in the district's next leader.

"The purpose of the focus groups was to get input, to allow a time period that some of your stakeholders in the district could come and share

See SEARCH, page 4A

■ CALHOUN FALLS

Garbage truck out of commission

Trash being collected via other means while town searches for a replacement

By FRANK BUMB
fbumb@indexjournal.com

Residents of Calhoun Falls sipping their coffee and trying to shake off the cobwebs in the morning might have noticed a peculiar sight with their garbage pickup.

Specifically, their refuse being tossed into the back of a pickup truck before being hauled away, and the reason being Calhoun Falls' normal garbage truck, more than a decade old, reached the end of its usable life and repair efforts to keep the truck running have largely been putting a bandage on a chopped-off limb.

"It has a long history of repairs," said Joseph Cade, public utilities director for Calhoun Falls. "It's been having problems since I took over in 2006."

On Feb. 21, the truck was finally out of the repair shop and ready to go back on duty.

It was back in the shop the next day.

See TRUCK, page 4A

MATT WALSH | INDEX JOURNAL

Calhoun Falls has resorted to using a debris truck and other pickups to haul trash from homes as their garbage truck sits in a state of permanent disrepair.

THE ISLAND PACKET

FRIDAY, MARCH 1, 2013

islandpacket.com

SERVING THE LOWCOUNTRY • 50¢

54°  36°

Don an extra layer — it's a chilly day. 6B

Boeing to cut hundreds of workers at its plant in North Charleston 7A

$8 buys you $16 worth of food, drink at Ray's Cafe
dealsaver.com/HiltonHead

Moss selected as new superintendent

School board voted 9-2 to appoint the Lee County, NC, schools veteran

By TOM BARTON

tbarton@beaufortgazette.com
843-706-8169

The Beaufort County school board chose Lee County, N.C., schools superintendent Jeffrey Moss over Gloria J. Davis of Decatur, Ill., to be the district's next superintendent — despite Davis' backing by senior staff.

The Board of Education voted 9-2

Moss

Thursday — with Laura Bush and Michael Rivers dissenting — to name Moss superintendent, pending approval of an employment contract. He would begin work July 1.

"I am honored," Moss said in an email. "... During my visits and conversations with board members and staff it was clear the No. 1 priority is the education of our citizens and students. I am looking forward to working with board members, staff, parents, community and business leaders."

Both finalists have been lauded for helping their districts close racial and socio-economic achievement gaps and bolster curriculum.

Moss has spent 30 years in public education and has been superintendent of the 9,850-student Lee County School District, based in Sanford, N.C., since January 2009. Before that, he was superintendent of schools in Beaufort County, N.C., and Starly County, N.C., which is near Charlotte.

Please see MOSS on 7A.

ON THE WEB

Click on this story at islandpacket.com for video of school board chairman Bill Evans and secretary Laura Bush's views on the man selected — and the woman who was not — to lead the schools.

2010 PINCKNEY ISLAND BOAT LANDING SHOOTING

Suspect found guilty of murder

By ALLISON STICE

astice@islandpacket.com
843-706-8138

After deliberating for several hours Thursday, a jury found Jerry Scantling guilty of murdering Leonard Green almost three years ago at the Pinckney Island boat landing.

Scantling, 30, will serve life in prison without possibility of parole for shooting the 52-year-old Hilton Head Island resident in May 2010 during what the prosecution said was an armed robbery.

Green's relatives, who occupied three rows at the Beaufort County Courthouse during the entire trial, remained silent under orders from Circuit Court Judge Carmen Mullen that there be no outbursts.

But as Green's sister, Joyce Young, offered to speak on the family's behalf while choking back tears, many of them also began to cry.

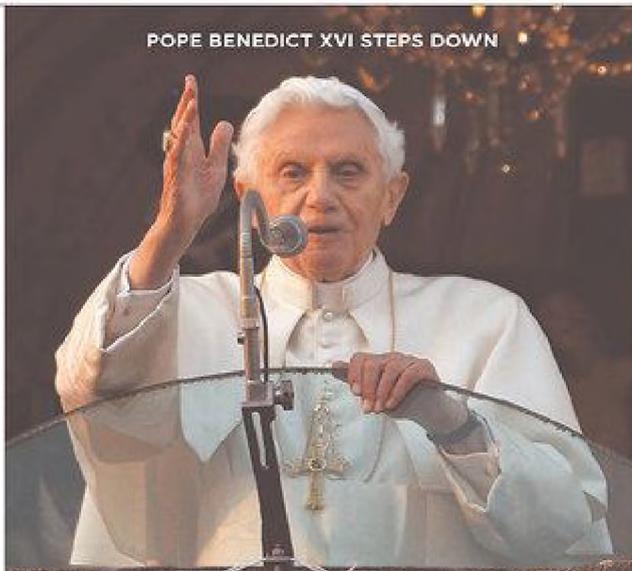

Young, who lost her legs and typically uses a motorized scooter, stood up on her prosthetics. She wanted to ask Scantling a question but addressed the court after Mullen denied her request.

"Y'all called him Leonard, but we called him Lee," Young said. "Lee was my brother. He didn't deserve to be killed like this and I don't understand why."

She thanked the judge, the jury and the prosecution with this: "I know he is at peace now."

Please see GUILTY on 7A

POPE BENEDICT XVI STEPS DOWN

A FINAL BLESSING

By FRANCES D'EMILIO and NICOLE WINFIELD • The Associated Press

As bells tolled and the clock struck 8, the brass-studded wooden doors swung shut Thursday at a palace in the Italian hills, marking an end to Benedict XVI's papacy and the start of his final journey as a "simple pilgrim."

Capping a day of tearful farewells that included a pledge of obedience to his successor, Benedict entered history as the first pope in 600 years to resign.

Please see POPE on 7A

Photo by ANDREW MEDICINI • The Associated Press

SLED begins Harrell inquiry

Authorities are investigating allegations the South Carolina House speaker used his position for personal gain.

By STEPHEN LARGEN

postandcourier.com

COLUMBIA — State Law Enforcement Division agents have begun investigating allegations that House Speaker Bobby Harrell used his campaign account and legislative office for personal gain, the agency confirmed Thursday.

Harrell
S.C. House speaker

S.C. Attorney General Alan Wilson last month asked SLED to conduct a preliminary inquiry into a complaint against Harrell filed by S.C. Policy Council President Ashley Landess.

SLED spokesman Thom Berry said Thursday the agency does not identify the names or numbers of agents assigned to specific cases. But S.C. Common Cause Executive Director John Crangle said SLED told him this week that four agents have been assigned to handle the investigation of Harrell. Crangle said he was told Lt. Michael Green is spearheading the inquiry.

Harrell, a Charleston Republican, has retained attorney Gedney Howe of Charleston as outside counsel.

Please see HARRELL on 7A

Automatic federal budget cuts take effect today

After last-minute efforts failed, most lawmakers went home, with party leaders scheduled to meet with the president today.

By WILLIAM DOUGLAS

adjourned, the Senate wrapped up

MORE INSIDE

Experts say the economy likely achieved, but doing so will require Republicans to compromise. That's how our democracy works, and that's what the American people

Morning News

FRIDAY MARCH 1, 2013

TODAY'S WEATHER
Cool with clouds and sun, high 55, low 35
DETAILS 2A

www.scnw.com

The Voice of the Pee Dee

75 cents

Panel censures Loftis as pension feud continues

Treasurer will wear action like 'badge of honor,' won't quit criticizing commission

BY JOHN SWEENEY
Morning News
jsweeney@florencenews.com

Loftis

COLUMBIA — In an unusual move, the South Carolina Retirement System Investment Commission (SCRSIC) voted Thursday to censure South Carolina Treasurer Curtis Loftis for "engaging in false, misleading and deceitful" actions against the commission.

The motion, which passed with only Loftis voting against, cited numerous statements Loftis in the past year to various media outlets and in correspondence to commission members and staff. In total, the censure mentions 25 statements made by the treasurer going back to February 2012, many of them made during an interview on a Florence radio talk show last month. The treasurer routinely criticizes the commission for what he said is a lack of transparency and has repeatedly said the commission

scnw.com

READ THE DOCUMENTS

Read the censure statement issued by the SCRSIC at <http://bit.ly/VdXzd3>.

actively misleads the public regarding its investments and general practices.

See LOFTIS, Page 6A

FMU honors Wilson

AG accepts award, says ethics scrutiny not effecting work

BY JOHN SWEENEY
Morning News
jsweeney@florencenews.com

FLORENCE — It was a night to remember for S.C. Attorney General Alan Wilson as the state's chief prosecutor was recognized Thursday for his professional accomplishments and service to both his alma mater and his state.

Wilson

Wilson was presented the Outstanding Alumnus Award at the Francis Marion University Performing Arts Center in downtown Florence.

Wilson, who graduated FMU in 1996 with a bachelor of arts in political science, was recognized alongside attorney Chad Burgess, Pee Dee Electric Co-op VP Jessica Rush Mason and Darlington County Schools superintendent Dr. Rainey Knight for their professional and academic accomplishments.

The attorney general said the evening was a humbling experience.

"I love this community, I love this school, and I'm just completely honored to be here," Wilson said prior to the ceremony.

The award came amidst a gathering scandal for the country's youngest attorney general, just a few days after roughly a dozen unreported contributions to the attorney general's 2010 campaign came to light. The funds, which helped pay for his 2011 inaugural ball, rose questions for the man who has touted himself an ethics reformer.

Wilson called the unaccounted funds "clerical

POWER DOWN

GAVIN JACKSON/MORNING NEWS

Florence air traffic control is one of more than 100 nationwide that could close April 1 as one of several cost-cutting measures the Federal Aviation Administration might make in across-the-board cuts to satisfy sequester requirements.

Control tower up in air

Florence airport station could go dark as part of sequester

BY GAVIN JACKSON
Morning News
gjackson@florencenews.com

FLORENCE — The Florence Regional Airport air traffic control tower could go dark next month if the sequester continues as scheduled, according to the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA).

Along with Florence, the towers at Grand

Strand Airport in North Myrtle Beach, Donaldson Center in Greenville and Hilton Head Airport could also go dark April 1 as the FAA trims $600 million in across-the-board cuts from its remaining fiscal year budget as required by the sequester to cut $85 billion in federal spending this year.

Florence Regional Airport executive

See AIR, Page 8A

Benedict resigns papacy

He exits the Vatican as a 'simple pilgrim'

The Associated Press

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy — As bells tolled and the clock struck 8, the brass-studded wooden doors swung shut Thursday at this palace in the Italian hills, marking an end to Benedict XVI's papacy and the start of his final journey as a "simple pilgrim."

Capping a day of tearful farewells that included an extraordinary pledge of obedience to his successor, Benedict entered history as the first pope in 600 years to resign — leaving the Catholic Church in unprecedented limbo and ending a pontificate shaped by struggles to move beyond clerical sex abuse scandals and reawaken Christianity in an indifferent world.

On Benedict's last day, the mood was vastly different inside the Vatican than at Castel Gandolfo, the 17th-century papal retreat set in the hills south of Rome, where he will spend the first two months of his retirement.

At the seat of the popes, Benedict's staff bade the pontiff goodbye in scenes of dignified solemnity, with Swiss Guards in full regalia and prelates kneeling to kiss his papal ring one last time.

A livelier atmosphere reigned in the countryside, with well-wishers jamming the hilltop town's main square, shouting "Viva il Papa!" and waving the yellow and white flags of the Holy See.

Cheers went up as the 85-year-old Benedict stepped out onto the palace balcony and, arms outstretched, declared his

See POPE, Page 8A

Investigators continue probe into fatal crash

From staff reports

FLORENCE — S.C. Highway Patrol investigators and officers with the Florence Police Department were back Thursday inspecting the location of a single-car crash that claimed the life of a Florence Coroner Keith von Lutcken. There were no skid marks on the street and nothing to indicate she made any attempt to avoid the collision.

Speed may have been a factor in the incident, von Lutcken said.

Friends of Marquita Denise Murrell walk past flowers and balloons

IN SPORTS: GO INSIDE THE GYM WITH O-W AS BRUNETTES PREPARE TO PLAY FOR A STATE TITLE

Coverage begins on B1 and online at TheTandD.com

FRIDAY, MARCH 1, 2013

The Times and Democrat

75 CENTS • ORANGEBURG, SOUTH CAROLINA

TheTandD.com

4 SECTIONS, 46 PAGES • VOL. 132 • NO. 60

Woman charged with abuse of animals

By LEE HENDREN T&D Government Writer

A Santee woman was ordered to stop "rescuing" dogs Thursday after she was charged with three counts of ill treatment of animals.

Orangeburg County Magistrate Peggy Doramus set bond at $10,000 personal recognizance on each of the three charges, but imposed some conditions on Daphne Lee Lugo upon learning she claimed in an online post that she still had four dogs available for adoption.

The judge ordered Lugo to remove all of her posts from Internet sites immediately and to stop her "rescue" efforts.

"You need to shut it down until this case is over," she said.

William Jung, Lugo's attorney, declined comment on the charges.

Lugo, who will turn 44 in two weeks, has described herself in various online posts as the president of Coastal Jack Russell Terrier Rescue. Last Friday, county officials removed dozens of animals from her property.

Lugo said little at her bond hearing except to state her age, employment and marital status, and say she had never been arrested before. In short, she followed the advice that the magistrate had given to the defendant in the previous bond hearing to "exercise your right to be silent" except to give direct answers to specific questions from the judge.

But her facial expressions became more agitated as the judge continued her explanation of the conditions of Lugo's bond.

"I saw the pictures," the judge said. "I am very adamant that she have no animals under her control. None!"

County officials took the photos last Friday at Lugo's residence at 5990 Five Chop Road. They were cited as evidence of claims made in the arrest warrants that Lugo "did knowingly and intentionally inflict excessive pain or suffering to canines in her care."

Daphne Lugo appeared before an Orangeburg County magistrate on Thursday. She has been formally charged with three counts of ill treatment of animals.

The warrants said most of the dogs "were in advanced stages of malnourishment and had medical needs neglected. ... The animals were in need of food, water and medical attention." They claim the dogs were left to sit in cages, pens and crates amongst excessive amounts of feces and urine.

The warrants said, "Veterinary examination revealed (two) animals to be severely underweight, had hook and whip worms and were dehydrated. The canines' conditions were so severe that both animals had to be euthanized!"

Also, seven dogs were found dead "in the defendant's garage ... in plastic bags and a plastic kennel. ... (Dead) animals were also located in the vicinity of live animals," a warrant said.

County Administrator Harold Young said in

LEE HENDREN/T&D

See ABUSE, A3

Man gets 25 years for incest

By RICHARD WALKER T&D Staff Writer

ST. MATTHEWS - A jury had to decide whether two children birthed by a minor were the result of drunken seduction or a forced incestual relationship.

Made up of four men and eight women, the jury spent just over an hour Thursday before deciding no one took advantage of 40-year-old John Haynes, who claimed to be the victim. He was found by the jury to be guilty of incest and second-degree criminal sexual conduct with a minor.

"What a horrible, horrible experience that has happened to you?" Circuit Court Judge Diane Goodstein told the victim. "These things shouldn't happen to little girls, when you should be safe at home."

Haynes sat shaking his head as Goodstein read his sentence: 20 years on the criminal sexual conduct charge and another five years for the charge of incest.

Just 15 at the time she gave birth to her first child, the victim told authorities she had been molested by the relative beginning when she was 13. She said fondling in the bath eventually turned into sexual intercourse.

Two children were born to her while she was a minor, one in 2008 and another in 2009. DNA evidence indicated Haynes is the father.

Haynes, meantime, did not take the stand. Through his attorneys, he claimed the victim was the aggressor, taking advan-

Haynes

See INCEST, A3

L.A. police arrest Vegas shooting suspect

By KEN BITTER Associated Press

LAS VEGAS - A self-described pimp was arrested Thursday in Los Angeles, ending a weeklong manhunt that began after a shooting and spectacular, fiery crash that

One arrested in shooting that sent toddler to hospital

T&D Staff Report

BAMBERG - The Bamberg Police Department has arrested a 28-year-old suspect in the shooting Monday night that sent a 2-year-old girl to the hospital.

Latroy Ondray Brown, aka "Bright Eye," of 72 Wren St., was charged with nine counts of attempted murder, one count of discharging be driving a white Chevrolet Cavalier.

When police arrived, they secured the scene and located the 2-year-old girl, who suffered a head wound during the shooting. The child was transported by ambulance to the Regional Medical Center.

Atman in the home told officers that two subjects had come to the residence of re-

Brown

See ABUSE, A3

Jeff Taillon

(803) 734-5129|Direct Line

(803) 767-7653|Cell