South Carolina State Parks

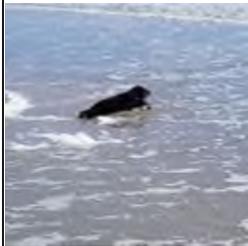

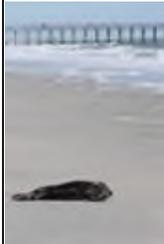

at 12:50:08 on 3/14/2019 UTC · 🌐

Yesterday was an exciting day at Myrtle Beach State Park! Around 11 a.m. a grey seal was spotted on the beach. Seals are seen in SC some in the winter, but they are usually harbor seals. Grey seals are very rare in SC. The seal was tagged, and it had been released from the Virginia Aquarium about a week ago.

After relaxing overnight, the seal returned to the ocean & its travels! Always keep your eyes open for wildlife at the beach. You never know what you might spot!

www.southcarolinaparks.com/myrtle-beach

Thanks to rangers Ann, Amanda & Ben for the photos! Note: if you spot a seal on the beach, please give them plenty of space and do not disturb them. They are there to rest!

Adele Mawicke Roy Katie Coley and Cassandra Zavislak - you were only a few days off from seeing this guy yourselves!!!!
