Hi Megan,

Thanks for your note. Yes, it was a bit of a rush-in, rush-out event last week, so unfortunately, I didn't get much of a chance to say hello to anyone.

I have had a couple of chances to meet with Sue – it's when the legislature's out of session that I find myself scrambling to keep up on meetings and other policy developments. In the meantime, if anything comes up, you know where to find me. Thanks.

Christian,

I didn't get the chance to meet you in person yesterday at the United Way policy briefing but I at least wanted to introduce myself via e-mail. I'm the new policy person at the Children's Trust and I've been in this role a little over a month. I was previously with the March of Dimes and worked closely with Director Keck and partners to eliminate the early elective deliveries you mentioned during your remarks.

I understand that you have met with our CEO, Sue Williams, recently. We very much appreciate the support of the Governor when it comes to our work of preventing child abuse and neglect in South Carolina. We know that prevention of child abuse and neglect along with unintentional injuries creates healthier citizens and ultimately reduces the costs of health care and other support services. I know we will have an opportunity to talk more in person in the near future. If I can provide you all with any additional information on our programs or data, please let me know.

Thank you,
Megan
