Rebecca,

I spoke with Mark Brodsky of RedVentures yesterday and he mentioned that on the Governor's visit she mentioned a program underway at the four-year universities to help train individuals for specific companies. They would like to take us on up on the use of that program. My suggestion would be to focus on USC-Lancaster, USC Upstate and USC Columbia. Is there a point of contact I, you, whoever, could get in touch with to initiate discussions with the company?

I am blackberry-less this morning at least so land-line or email are the only options for communications.
