scstateparks We are excited to share that the turtle patrol at Edisto Beach State Park found their first few nests of the season about a week ago! It was a busy morning with three new nests. One nest needed to be relocated as it was at risk of too many washovers from the tide. We safely relocated the 130 eggs to a new location. In 45-60 days, the hatchlings will be ready to emerge and make their way to the ocean! Ways to help the sea turtles: 🐢 Fill in any holes you dig. 🐢 Knock down your sandcastles. 🐢 Pick up trash and make sure all of your belongings are off the beach once you are done for the day. 🐢 If you happen to be on the beach at night, be sure to only use red lights as white lights can disturb our nesting turtles. Thank you for helping us keep a dark, flat and clean beach! The turtles and our patrol team appreciate it! #SCStateParks #DiscoverSC #EdistoBeachStatePark briannewizorek Incase anyone wants a suggestion for making their flashlight turtle safe, we cover our bulb with red brake light tape from Ace Hardware. We couldn't find any of the covers that are usually provided.

pluffmudbaron Is it a state law against lights other than red or just a best practice and recommend?
