ACL Announces New Funding Opportunity for a Paralysis Resource Center

More than a quarter million Americans are living with spinal cord injuries, and approximately 4 to 5 million Americans are living with paralysis of the extremities. For these individuals and their families, finding and accessing the right long-term services and supports can be a daunting task.

To help address this challenge, ACL is now accepting grant applications for a National Paralysis Resource Center to improve the health and quality of life of individuals living with paralysis, their families, and caregivers. Applications are due April 27, 2015. To learn more, click here.
