Chad Walldorf

Chad Walldorf is managing partner of Eighty-Six, LLC. He was a co-founder of Sticky Fingers Restaurants in Mount Pleasant, an original-concept restaurant company operating sixteen locations in five states. He and his partners expanded the brand into a successful catering business, national mail order company, and barbecue sauce wholesaler to nearly 3,000 grocery stores nationwide before selling a portion of the business in 2006 to a private equity firm, Quad-C. Chad and his partners were the 2004 Ernst and Young Entrepreneurs of the Year for the Carolinas. Chad also served as a deputy chief of staff to Governor Mark Sanford. He currently serves as chairman of the South Carolina Venture Capital Board, chairman of the South Carolina Club for Growth and was a co-founder of the Memminger Elementary Playground Project. He chaired the Government Efficiency and Accountability Review Commission, which identified over $500 million in savings for South Carolina government. Chad graduated from the University of Virginia with a distinguished major in American government. He grew up in Chattanooga and lives on Sullivan's Island. He is a Fellow of the inaugural class of the Liberty Fellowship Program and a member of the Aspen Global Leadership Network.

Dave Ellison

Dave Ellison joined Northwestern Mutual in 1981 after a five year banking career. He has served or is currently serving on several community boards including the Furman University Board of Trustees, the United Way of Greenville County Board of Trustees and the Board of Directors of Southern First Bancshares, Inc. Dave's leadership positions include serving as past chair of the Furman Board of Trustees, past president of the Furman Alumni Association and past chair of the United Way's Palmetto Society. He was inducted into the Furman University Athletic Hall of Fame in 1992. Dave is also a member of the Society of Financial Service Professionals. He is married to Frances DeLoache Ellison and has three sons. Dave earned B.A. from Furman University and an M.B.A. from the Clemson-Furman program.
