Gov. Haley:

In light of the recent events over the last week, we have felt it was necessary to communicate with your office and you as the official state representative of South Carolina.

After careful review and consulting with our associates, in light of your political actions in South Carolina about the suppressing historical heritage that deeply involves Native Americans in the southern states, which many Native Americans have taken offense to the politically motivated actions, we are initiating policies on our upcoming film 'Red Man's View' in regards the state of South Carolina (This does NOT reflect on the citizens).

In the film 'Red Man's View', from this date there will be no film production, location production, post production, and/or any film business whatsoever for the film 'Red Man's View' in the entire state of South Carolina in perpetuity.

Also, as of now, any 'Historical' reference in the film 'Red Man's View' to, and about the state of South Carolina will be omitted from the film permanently and in perpetuity.

On the subject of 'Red Man's View' contracted production company - the American Mutoscope and Biograph Company, a new amendment to the production film company policies will be initiated as of 2016; There will be no film production, and/or location production, post-production, or any film production business whatsoever with and/or in the entire state of South Carolina in perpetuity, by the American Mutoscope and Biograph Company and/or its affiliated associates.

Regards,

Thomas R. Bond, II

Producer-Red Man's View
