We're excited to begin a new email series detailing Arthrex's progress toward the opening of our manufacturing facility in Sandy Springs. We are sending this email to Anderson County community leaders and our education partners to strengthen the lines of communication as we move closer to opening the doors and starting production. This installment includes news about construction of the facility, hiring and an interview with Aaron Wilson, director of operations for the Arthrex Manufacturing Inc. South Carolina (AMISC) facility.

You will receive these emails monthly as we have news to share leading up to the opening of the facility in 2019.

Limited Hiring Begins

We're excited to announce we've filled our very first job in South Carolina by hiring an employee for the Senior Manager of Quality Assurance position. A limited number of other jobs are also available, including a human resources manager. The jobs can be found on our Job Seeker site by clicking on the Open Positions – United States button and searching "South Carolina" in the location field.

Those interested in applying for jobs, including jobs that are not posted yet, should Join Our Talent Network, which will allow potential candidates to receive job alerts that match their interests and share opportunities through social media and email.

We plan to continue to slowly roll out more jobs for AMISC in the coming months, with the majority of the jobs posted later this fall/winter.

Construction Update

Construction continues to progress as scheduled with the development and grading of the manufacturing campus. The manufacturing building pad is ready for the construction of the new facility. The Anderson County Office of Economic Development has taken the lead in prioritizing the Arthrex site and facilities design review, helping us obtain permits for commercial land use, storm water management and wastewater. We appreciate their knowledge and assistance. The Anderson County Building Department has issued building permits for our manufacturing and central services facilities. Utility design review continues and construction has begun.

We're excited to introduce you to Aaron Wilson, the future director of operations at AMISC, currently in the same position at Arthrex Manufacturing Inc. in Ave Maria, Florida. We had the opportunity to find out more about Aaron's career, new position and how together with the Anderson County community we can further our mission of Helping Surgeons Treat Their Patients Better™.
