Alterations (including date(s), if known):

Two historic additions have been made to the rear of the building in concrete block, one front-gabled and one shed-roofed. A large modern addition has also been made to the south elevation of the building. It is clad in V-crimp metal siding, has a laterally gabled composition shingle roof, and more than doubles the size of the building.
