

From: WCRI <wcri@wcrinet.ccsend.com>
To: Kevin L. BryantKevinBryant@scstatehouse.gov
Date: 12/18/2018 6:02:18 AM
Subject: From Washington State to Washington, D.C. – A Model for Coordinated Services

Conference Session: From Washington State to Washington, D.C. – A Model for Coordinated Services

In keeping with the theme (Breaking Down Barriers to Improve Injured Workers' Outcomes) of our 35th Annual Workers' Compensation Issues & Research Conference, Feb. 28 and Mar. 1, 2019, in Phoenix, AZ, WCRI will feature the following session:

From Washington State to Washington, D.C. – A Model for Coordinated Services

Washington State has shown that creating a community-based program that brings together medical providers, employers, and injured workers helps ensure timely, effective, and coordinated services for injured workers. Now efforts are underway by the U.S. Department of Labor's Office of Disability Employment Policy (DOL's ODEP) to pilot this program in eight other states. Join our distinguished panel as they discuss the origins of this program, what makes it successful, and the potential lessons that can be learned by stakeholders.

Speakers:

- Jennifer Sheehy, U.S. DOL's ODEP
- Prof. Tom Wickizer, Ohio State University College of Public Health

Don't miss this opportunity to elevate your career, expand your knowledge, and network with your peers. Register today to take advantage of our discounted "early bird" conference rate and discounted hotel room block before they are gone.

Learn More / Register Now

See what former attendees value about our conference and what keeps them coming back.

See what's happening on our social sites

Workers Compensation Research Institute (WCRI) | 955 Massachusetts Avenue, 6th Floor, Cambridge, MA
02139 <https://www.wcrinet.org/>

Unsubscribe kevinbryant@scsenate.gov

About our service provider

Sent by wcri@wcrinet.org