Karen.

Honestly. I had no idea. I have been out of town literally with my family and brought my grandmother back with me from FL. The first I got back was the day you saw me.

So all this is new to me as well ... And I am not pleased either.

Not that the decision to move your mom was not needed but the experience was certainly not what it should have been. I would like to look into the situation further if you don't mind.

All I do know is that her care needs with feeding were changing. And I knew it could be soon but I would have liked to have made that call to you if above was necessary AND schedule a date convenient for you and your family. Unless there was some sort of urgency, I would have offered a better move date and I'm sure we would have been able to comprise on more hours of sitter time if needed until you could made it back.

Again, I am terribly sorry for this experience. But I very glad you emailed me.
